Editor's Column

by STUART R. PADDOCK

Southside residents of Arlington Heights have a new alarm clock . . . the bugle calls from the Nike base. The first one at 5:30 means it is time for soldiers to get out of bed. It is also awakening some commuters whose first train is at 8 o'clock.

We are not objecting to early hours for members of the armed forces, or for the sleepy-heads on Arlington's south side, but it does remind us of the days when we were young. Our schedule was 5:30 arise; build the wood-coal fire at the printing office at 6:00; eat breakfast at 6:30 and, as the printer's devil, start sweeping out the printing office at 7 o'clock.

The work day for printers 65 years ago started at 7 a.m. and did not end until 6 p.m. . . . a 10 hour day.

Some parents are saying that extra curricular school activities are placing too much pressure upon their daughters.

Of course, those daughters love their school life, but too often mother is told, "Sorry, mom, but I don't have time to help you."

The high school student is to be commended in trying to excel in school work, but both parents and daughters . . . and teachers . . . should realize that as much character value and training results from doing home chores as an "A" rating ensues from competitive activities.

Or, should we just say "It is the penalty a mother must pay for having an ambitious daughter?"

While on a San Francisco train last week we discovered that our education on national politics had been directed in one channel . . . Republicanism . . . too long.

Companions in the lounge car were largely southern Democrats who could not understand why an Illinois editor could not tell them which Democratic candidate would give Republican Nixon the hardest run for his money.

In the same lounge car we found a fellow traveler who was taking his first train ride in many years, he said "because I wanted the experience."

"Of course you are flying to San Francisco" our friends said when told of our Thanksgiving holiday. They were wrong. We really enjoyed the "39 Hours" as compared to a few hours on a jet.

In spite of claims of some hard pressed railroads, train travel is not yet obsolete.

Besides, we enjoy antiques and we are not going to miss another ride on the Knob Hill cable cars in San Francisco.

By the way, have you seen one of those new 1959 Lincoln pennies? They are surely pretty, no matter how little they will buy.

No column next week. We are on our way to eat turkey 3,000 miles distant. We hope all our readers will relish their meal as much as we anticipate we will.

Shovel Walks— Or Else

Village trustees hope to keep pace with old man winter in Arlington Heights when they consider a snow removal ordinance at Monday night's adjourned village board meeting.

The ordinance will, if passed, require residents to clear their sidewalks prior to 10 a.m., excepting on Sundays, of snow that fell the previous day and during the night. Sunday's snow must be cleared by 10 a.m. Monday.

It further provides that if sidewalks are iced they must be strewn by the property owner with ashes, sand or sawdust.

IN ORDER to give public works an opportunity to clear the streets of snow the ordinance limits parking on streets when snow is falling and for eight hours after snow stops falling, if the snow on the street exceeds one inch, to three minutes for loading and unloading passengers and 30 minutes for property. Village Manager L. A. Hanson notes, however, that the parking restriction may be changed to merely ban parking on public streets between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. when snow is on the ground.

Penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine ranging from $5 to $100.

Hanson says the village is well equipped for winter with eight pieces of snow removal equipment and 100 tons of salt ready to go.

EQUIPMENT includes four scrapers, three plows and a power loader. Two of the scrapers and the loader were purchased during the past year at a cost of $7,900. The power loader is the only one of its kind in the northwest suburban area, says Hanson.

As was done last year, snow will be plowed to the middle of streets to allow people getting out of cars access to sidewalks.

Open House Set At New Hospital

The general public is invited to tour the new $2.9 million Northwest Community hospital Sunday from 2:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

This will be the public's only opportunity to see the hospital facilities before it begins accepting patients. The hospital auxiliary will provide tours for the pre-opening open house.

The new hospital is located at 800 E. Central rd., Arlington Heights.

Teen Hayride Set Saturday

A teenagers' hayride will be held on Saturday. Nov. 27. The hayride will originate at Idle Hour Stables near Park Ridge, but a bus will pick up the teenagers at Pioneer and Recreation parks at 7:30 p.m.

The hayride is a special event sponsored by the Arlington Heights park district. The cost is $1 per person and places in the two wagons will be reserved for the first 23 couples to register at Pioneer park.

Phone CL 3-0620 for further information.

ONLY ONE OF ITS KIND in northwest suburbs, Arlington Heights newly acquired power snow loader stands ready for action. Cost of loader was $4,300. Snow is sucked up and through curved tunnel into truck.

Third High School Approved by Voters

High school district 214 residents Saturday approved by more than a two to one margin a $3.9 million bond issue to build and equip a 2500 student high school in Elk Grove township.

The final tally was 2,754 to 1,297 in favor of the proposition, 13 ballots being spoiled. Each of the 17 precincts passed the measure, and in most cases by rather large majorities.

Closest balloting occurred in Mt. Prospect, where Central school (241-222) and Lincoln school (283-248) voters gave the issue a narrow victory. With the exception of North school (152-137), Arlington Heights precincts carried the proposition by large percentages.

ELK GROVE, Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights gave overwhelming approval to the proposal, as did smaller groups of voters in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

Board of education president Kenneth Dougan described the election as a "pretty good sized vote." "We were pleased with the endorsement of the program by the voters," he went on to say, "particularly in the fact that the issue carried in every part of the district."

The building, to be constructed on Goebert rd., between Algonquin and Golf rds., in Elk Grove township, is to be ready for the school year, 1962-63. Architects have started to prepare working plans, detailed drawings, and specifications.

The board expects to ask for bids approximately May 1, and construction will start in June. "The $3.9 million worth of bonds will be sold on a competitive basis in the next several months, at a time we hope will be advantageous to the district," Dougan stated.

SATURDAY'S voting, by precinct, was as follows:

Wheeling — Wheeling school (43-5) and Mark Twain (42-10); Buffalo Grove—Village Hall (35-7), District 24—Wilson school (139-40); Prospect Heights—North school (182-85); Mt. Prospect—Central (241-222) and Lincoln (283-248).

Arlington Heights — Ridge (236-103), North (152-137), Windsor (219-77), Dryden (242-93); Park (200-124); and Westgate (67-39). Rolling Meadows—Kimball Hill (215-46) and Salk (190-21). Elk Grove Village — Higgins (31-7) and Rupley (237-33).

Early Editions

All editions of Paddock Publications newspapers will go to press early next week for Thanksgiving.

The papers will be distributed Tuesday.

Deadline for news and ads is Saturday noon. General offices and plant at 217 W. Campbell st., Arlington Heights, will be open Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon. They will be closed all day Thanksgiving, Nov. 26.

Nimrods, Age 8

Two Arlington Heights residents were apprehended by police this week for hunting in the village.

The eight-year-old Nimrods were let off with a warning that it was against the law to hunt rabbits in the village, even with bows and arrows.

Husband Dies on Day Of His Wife's Burial

He literally couldn't live without her.

This was the opinion of doctors and friends when Donald Scherrer, 44, of 4 N. Reuter, Arlington Heights, died the day of his wife's funeral last week.

The tragic deaths of the parents, three days apart, climaxed nearly four years of unbearable pain, rare courage, unwavering faith and anxiety over the family's four children ranging in age from six to 16.

The family found a year of happiness in their new home in the village before discovering that the mother, Catherine, 43, had cancer. As time passed, her suffering was obvious, but she never complained, neighbors note. In fact when her illness was mentioned, she always said she felt fine and considered herself lucky for having such a wonderful family.

SHORTLY AFTER her illness was discovered, it was found that Donald had a heart condition complicated by a lung disease. He continued to work, however, at his job of photo-engraving.

Medical bills piled up, savings disappeared, mortgage payments fell behind, and still the couple managed to give their children more love and attention than most parents do, neighbors note.

"When you visited them you always came away feeling better. She was so cheerful she made her problems seem small. She used to say 'don't worry about me, think of all the people that are worse off,'" recalls another neighbor.

ACQUAINTANCES wondered where the couple got the strength to carry on. "Doctors said they lived longer than could have reasonably been expected because of their love for one another and their family. They were trying to be strong for each other," notes a close friend. "He worshipped the ground she walked on," said another.

The diseases took their toll, however, and both grew weaker with each passing day. Still Donald continued to work, though doctors thought it impossible.

FINALLY, Catherine realized that time was running out and arranged for her oldest girl to live with relatives and her other three, two girls and a boy, to go to a private children's home.

The end came Wednesday, Nov. 11, when Catherine died in Billings hospital in Chicago. Donald, though in an oxygen tent, begged to be allowed to attend her funeral. Doctors refused his request, but he joined her in death last Saturday, the day of her funeral mass at Our Lady of the Wayside church in Arlington Heights.

Trustees Act To Shorten Proceedings

In an attempt to keep village board sessions from extending into the wee hours of the night and often into the morning, Arlington Heights trustees are considering an amendment to the rules of order.

In a report submitted to the board by Trustees Eugene Schlickman and Bill Sauer the two reasons given for board meetings dragging are insufficient information for intelligent discussion and lack of strict adherence to rules of order, particularly in regard to debate and visitors.

ONE OF THE proposed amendments would provide that matters not raised by 10:30 p.m. be carried over to an adjourned meeting the following week. Another suggestion is that the agenda be prepared and distributed on Wednesday. The present practice is to have the agenda ready for distribution on the Friday prior to a Monday's board meeting.

A third proposal would establish the following standing committees: administration and finance, building and zoning, public relations and communications, public safety and health, streets, sidewalks and lights and water and sewer.

MATTERS OF A special nature could be referred to a special committee by a majority note of the board. Each standing committee would be composed of three members.

The trustees' report noted that it is not fair to persons attending board meetings or to board members to conduct meetings into the late hours.

ADOPTED AS ARLINGTON Heights' official emblem, this seal graces village vehicles and will be used as the 1960 vehicle sticker. Arrangement for its design by Luc Lebon, art director of a Chicago advertising agency, was made by the Arlington Heights Woman's club. Lebon has won several art awards.

1960 Vehicle Tag Applications Out

Application forms for Arlington Heights' 1960 vehicle stickers will be mailed to residents starting next week.

The fee for passenger cars is $6. For trucks of one ton or less it's $10 and for trucks of over a ton, $20. A return envelope may be used to remit the fee to the village hall. Deadline for procuring the sticker is January 1.

THE STICKER may also be purchased at the village hall. In the space designated for license number on the application the 1959 license number may be used.

Dog and business license applications will be mailed to residents the latter part of the month. This will be the first year dog license applications have been mailed.

Study Annexation South of Village

Now that a third high school to the south of Arlington Heights has become a certainty, the village has added incentive to expand its boundaries southward, according to Village Manager L. A. Hanson.

He reasons that construction of a high school in the area, approved in a referendum last week and scheduled for completion in 1962, will spur construction of residences in the area.

THE VILLAGE'S master plan envisions Arlington Heights' southern boundary as the Toll rd., and Hanson notes that the village attorney has already made a preannexation study of several unincorporated areas surrounding the village.

High on the priority list of annexation is the area west of the Northwest Community hospital. Inquiries have already been made concerning a subdivision for this area, said Hanson.

A second parcel slated for annexation by the village is that area south of Central rd., west of State rd., and east of Ridge. Steps were taken several months ago to proceed with the annexation of the Nike base on Central rd.

SHOULD THE village expand its boundaries to those recommended by the master plan, it would nearly double the village's present six square miles.

As a northern boundary the plan foresees extending the village limits to encompass the Rand Hill cemetery and land bounded by Hintz rd. on the north and Buffalo Grove rd. on the east. Wilke rd. would remain as the village's western boundary.

Neither Jinx nor Blizzard Dulls Local Social Picture

When the "let's go places and do things" inclination invades our town, nothing stays Arlington Heighters from their appointed rounds or their well-rounded appointments. Neither the jinx of Friday the 13th nor the junior blizzard of Thursday the 12th, nor any other thing dulled the local social picture last week.

The most vital activities in the opinion of the several members of our young set were the varied celebrations of their birthdays. Mary Ellen Gabrielsen and nine fellow kindergarteners have not the slightest inkling that Friday the 13th is supposed to be anything but fun and good fortune. Mary Ellen was 5 last Friday and entertained in the Gabrielsen home, 705 S. Chestnut, with an 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. luncheon party that dovetailed neatly between kindergarten sessions.

Pat McCormick, 844 S. Vail, celebrated her 13th birthday on Friday the 13th. with a slumber party, that lasted well into her actual birth date the next day. Nine girl friends and Pat began the party but not the slumbering, after the football game Friday night and just naturally had to stay awake until it was really Pat's birthday. Then, of course, it wasn't logical to fall asleep and the girls were as logical as they could be.

November 9 is a double-header day at 633 S. Dunton, where the Meinhausen boys, Kurt and Steven, celebrate a birthday apiece. This year Kurt was 5, Steven was 8, and to mark the remarkable occasion, 44 local 5-year-olds and 8-year-olds kept the south Dunton street household hopping from noon to dusk. Twenty four fellow kindergarteners came home with Kurt at noon for a birthday luncheon and afternoon games. The dust barely settled after their exit, when Steven and his 20 classmates stirred it up again, arriving from school for a late afternoon party and hot dog supper. Mrs. Meinhausen rested Tuesday.

CLIFFORD PEEKE was 7-years-old November 7, and of course he had seven guests at his birthday party. The all-seven occasion included a festive luncheon, games and movies in the Peeke home, 13 S. Ridge.

Lynne Mathews' November 17 birthday is usually celebrated at a large family party in her parents' home on the Sunday nearest the big day. No family party was planned this year, though, and for Lynne, Sunday seemed a trifle dull. It seemed so, that is, unti late afternoon when a dozen girl friends arrived at 711 N. Dunton shouting, "Surprise!" and Lynne's mother suddenly caused a gala dinner party to materialize right under the birthday girl's nose. Fourteen is a nice age for surprise dinner parties.

Caroll Westfall entertained several couples in the Westfall home, 843 S. Highland, after the high school dance Saturday night. Although Carroll's 17th birthday was Monday, Saturday night's get-together was not a birthday party. It was fun, though.

Barbara Ann Hey was 3-years-old Friday, and celebrated with four young friends at a pre-naptime party in the Hey home, 441 S. Highland. By the snooze hour, early games and an early luncheon had made the party-goers pleasantly tired and full, a delightful state of being for young nappers.

ARTHUR EKBERG had a pizza party for several buddies on the school holiday last week, to celebrate being 9-years-old the day before. Perfect entertainment for a batch of bounding 9-year-old boys, reports Art's mother, is giving them free run of three and one-half acres, complete with cornfield, and free rein with almost three and one-half acres of pizza at the refreshment table. Both were available and put to good use by the boys at 2108 N. Chestnut Wednesday afternoon.

Ricky Bierma, 15 E. Willow, was 9-years-old Wednesday, and had 13 buddies over for a no-school afternoon of games and outdoor fun, followed by indoor fun with birthday refreshments. All mothers of 9-year-old boys agree that eating is one of the boys' favorite indoor sports.

"Darby O'Gill and the Little People," Jeffrey Peterson and some more little people, celebrated Jeff's eighth birthday Sunday afternoon, first at the local theater showing Disney's latest picture and later in the Peterson home, 702 S. Highland, where cake, ice cream and surprises awaited Jeff and his five guests.

Mrs. Frank Halama, 825 S. Highland, was hostess Sunday afternoon to 36 friends and members of the family at a surprise bridal shower to honor her niece, Miss Kay Nelson of Chicago. Miss Nelson was presented with miscellaneous gifts that were arranged on a table centered with a child's transparent umbrella through which could be seen an attractive floral arrangement. Miss Nelson will be married December 19 to Kenneth Kiemel, also of Chicago.

MR. AND MRS. Roy Hughes, 6 W. Grove, returned Sunday from a 10 day vacation in Pueblo, Colo., that was spent sightseeing a little and relaxing a lot. While local residents were watching the snow pile up here last Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were enjoying sunshine and a 71 degree temperature. Their only consolation when temperatures dropped after their return home, is that it's not as warm in Colorado as it used to be either.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Gerken and Jim, 718 N. Vail, enjoyed the Parents day activities recently, during a weekend at Carbondale where Don, a recent Delta Chi pledge, is in his freshman year at Southern Illinois university. It was the first time the family had been together since Don left for college in September and they are all looking forward to the Thanksgiving vacation when Don will be home.

Twelve family members had an early Thanksgiving celebration Sunday in the Paul Williams home, 837 S. Chestnut, as the Williams' son, Bill, was ending a 6-week vacation at home. He has been on a biennial leave from Iran, where he is with an American oil company and began the return trip to Iran Sunday night after the premature holiday party, when he said goodbye to local and Rockford relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wist, 837 S. Vail, spent last week in Miami, where they basked in 80 degree temperatures everyday, and hardly thought about their snow-shoveling friends at all. They celebrated Mr. Wist's November 12 birthday with dinner at the Hotel Fontainebleau, in the company of Chicago friends they had unexpectedly met earlier in the week in Miami. The Wist children invited grandmother Wist of Villa Park to spend the week here with them "so Grandma wouldn't be lonesome" while their parents were gone.

MR. AND MRS. Walter Stumpf, 513 S. Highland, recently returned from three weeks in Florida and a few days in Pittsburgh, Kan. Their wide detour to Kansas en route Florida, was to visit Mrs. Stumpf's sister and her husband, the John V. Venemas, who will be leaving early next month for Calcutta, India. In Florida the Stumpfs stayed about a week in St. Petersburg and a week in Sarasota. They also stopped in Clearwater, where they visited former Arlington Heights residents, the John Daleys.

Visitors last week in the home of Mrs. Anita Sanchez, S. State rd., were her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Mireles and children, of Genoa, Ohio. Joining them for a reunion, their first in four years, were the other children of Mrs. Sanchez and their families; the Rosendo Perez family of Mt. Prospect; the Delfino Mergados of Palatine and the Epifanio Martinez family of Waukegan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Loechl of Elkhorn, Wis., celebrated their 44th wedding anniversary November 7 and were guests of their children at a festive dinner party in the Villa D'Este in Cary. Cohosts were their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Loechl, 1213 N. Dunton and the junior George Loechls of Niles, and their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Porreca of Chicago. Another son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Loechl of Bensenville, had to cancel their plans to complete the family circle because of illness.

Mrs. Frances Alkire of Hull, Ill., left here Sunday for St. Augustine, after spending a week with her son, Sidney, and his wife, 742 S. State. The senior Mrs. Alkire who has wintered in Florida for several years was "treated" to her first sight of snow in seven years, when last Thursday's blizzard blitzed Arlington Heights.

THE JUNIOR Conrad Neumann family, 833 N. Ridge, were among 75 family members and friends recently honoring Mrs. Neumann's parents, the Mathias Schmidts, on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. After attending 9 o'clock mass with her parents, Mrs. Neumann and her family gathered with other family members for luncheon in the Chicago home of Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt, where the grand finale to the big day was dinner and dancing for everyone.

The other two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt and their families, joined Mrs. Neumann in honoring their parents. Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Link and daughters came from Toledo for the occasion, and the John Hardy family of Northbrook, made the gathering of children and grandchildren complete. Among the other guests were cousins from Gary, and lifelong friends of the anniversary couple who were here from Leamington, Ontario for the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hauser and Debby, 101 N. Forrest, returned late Monday night from a long weekend in Gowrie, Iowa, where they visited Mrs. Hauser's parents, the C. E. Plotners. Mr. Hauser and his father-in-law left the womenfolk to their visiting while they greeted the opening of the pheasant season. Mr. and Mrs. Plotner and several pheasants returned here with the Hausers to spend the Thanksgiving holiday.

The previous weekend, former Des Moines neighbors of the Hausers, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Estelle, Dick, Debbie and Greg, were guests in the Hauser home. They all en-

THE PAUL BROWNS said goodbye to their friends and neighbors at a farewell party Saturday, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, 211 Stratford. The 30 friends and neighbors who attended, planned an unusual twist to the party, that of surprising their host, Mr. Sullivan, in honor of his birthday, bringing him many amusing and humorous gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will leave this week for their home in Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Moore gave a dinner party in their home at 345 Windsor on Sunday, for Mrs. Marguerite Johnson, who was visiting here from Montgomery, Ala.

Because his birthday falls on Veterans day, E. J. Kilfoy had a party with an American theme. American flags decorated his room as well as his birthday cake. They spent a pleasant and gay weekend, going into Chicago Saturday to dine at Don the Beachcomber, and afterwards attending a performance of the Music Man.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hermes, 717 Mayfair, joined friends to attend the University of Wisconsin-Illinois football game in Madison, which they thought was one of the most exciting of the season. Afterwards, they drove to the Wagon Wheel in Rockton, to spend the rest of the weekend.

The Eldred Enloes will soon move to their new home on North Highland ave., in Arlington Heights. There was a farewell party for them Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stark, 538 S. Dryden, attended by 34 neighbors, who presented the Enloes with a gift.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, 628 Bristol lane, were in Toronto during the past week, attending the National Real Estate Board convention. Driving home, they stopped briefly in Erie, to visit former Scarsdale friends, the William Lavertys, whom Mrs. Russell reports, are happily settled in their new home.

MR. AND MRS. Albert Isaacs, 430 S. Dryden, were hosts at a dinner party Sunday, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Down, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lippert, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bolte, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Smith and Mrs. William Syverson. After dinner, guests participated in the initial planning of the PTA town show, for the 1959-60 season entitled "The Marriage of Mary Brown," a musical comedy, to be given at Miner school, March 30, 31, and April 1.

Mrs. Charles E. Skinner and Mrs. Howard Wittenburg of Palatine, entertained 20 guests at a luncheon and bridge, November 12, in the former's home, 721 S. Beverly lane. On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Skinner were in Des Plaines, to celebrate the 84th birthday of her mother, Mrs. Pauline Lee.

Mrs. Fred P. Robinson, 420 S. Lincoln lane, entertained 10 guests at a luncheon and bridge, November 12, with proceeds going to the Womans auxiliary of the Northwest Community hospital.

Another Scarsdale resident in Madison for the Wisconsin-Illinois game were the Robert McFadins, 515 Fairview, who were joined by the Benjamin Stelys of Flossmore.

MR. AND MRS. J. Brown Hardison, 347 Burton, gave a birthday dinner party for their daughters, Linda and Gail, and guests, at the Elks club in Des Plaines. Afterwards, they attended a performance of the Music Man. Linda, 14, and Gail, 13, share birthdays just a few weeks apart, and report they enjoyed their first taste of a more formal party and an adult play. Saturday, they were hosts to three friends at their very own candlelight supper party.

The Hugh Robinsons, 711 E. Fairview, had a double birthday celebration in November. Birthday children sharing honors at a family dinner party were Stuart, who became 12 October 10, and Jean, who became a teenager, November 12.

The Ronald W. Schecks, 512 Banbury, will have as Thanksgiving holiday guests, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McCoy of Batavia, and her sister and brother-in-law, the C. C. McCunes, also of Batavia. (A

Contractor Pleads For Code Variance

A construction worker's two foot error in pouring a cement foundation may put a Chicago builder out of business, according to the contractor's attorney.

An attorney for Morlo builders told Arlington Heights village board members this week that unless a variance in the building code is granted his client, he will lose the sale of a house under construction at 911 N. Harvard. The attorney noted the builder's only assets are the disputed house and two others under construction in the village.

Trouble began when a neighbor to the south of the house under construction noted that its eaves extended nearly to the side lot line. He checked with the village's building department who in turn checked the house.

HE FOUND that as a result of the foundation being poured too close to the lot line, overhang of the bi-level's second story came to within one foot of the lot line. The village's building code specifies a minimum distance of three feet between a side lot line and a house.

A stop work order was issued by the building commissioner, and the village manager recommended to the board that work on the house note be permitted to proceed until construction complied with the village code.

The attorney termed the mistake a "most unfortunate error," but pleaded that a variation be granted. He said the prospective buyer would not purchase the house if a change is made. "Removal of the overhang at this stage of construction would be tantamount to putting the builder out of business," he said.

HE ALSO presented a letter from the neighbor that originally pointed out the error, stating that he had no objection to the excessive overhang.

But board members, in moving to accept the manager's recommendation that the error be corrected, seem to share Trustee Melvin Kurtz's reasoning that "We're not here to compare one builder's bank balance against another's or examine their financial status, but to enforce village ordinances."

Hints To Home Owners

by James Fizzell
Assistant Farm Advisor

By James Fizzell,
Assistant Farm Adviser

With the coming of the holiday seasons, many households will be receiving cut flowers either as gifts, or for everyday use as decorations. There are few things which will brighten up a room or lend a friendly atmosphere as well as fresh flowers.

Every florist uses all means available to him to get your flowers to you in the best possible condition, but it is up to the recipient to take proper measures to insure maximum life of the flowers.

When the flowers are received, about ½ to 1 inch of the bottom of the stem should be cut off, and the stems immediately immersed in warm water. If possible the flowers should be placed in a cool place for a couple of hours until they pick up water.

AN IMPORTANT factor in keeping flowers fresh is the acidity or pH of the water in which they are placed. Research has shown that flowers definitely keep better if the water is on the acid side. Most water supplies in our area are on the alkaline side, and addition of an acid such as citric acid to the water will usually be of considerable help in the keeping of cut flowers. Citric acid is available in most drug stores. Aspirin is sometimes used for this purpose.

Different types of flowers vary in the length of time they will stay fresh after they are cut. Some, such as carnations and chrysanthemums will keep from two to three weeks if the stems are cut and the water changed every few days. More delicate flowers such as roses, snapdragons, and stocks will not live as long even under the best conditions. However, proper care will help to make these flowers last the maximum time possible.

Hospital Holds 'Open House' Sunday

Hundreds of northwest suburban residents will get their first look at the Northwest Community Hospital, 800 W. Central rd., Arlington Heights, Sunday, Nov. 22, when the new health center holds its formal dedication and open house.

Citizens of the nine communities to be served by the hospital are invited to inspect the facility which was built by the contribution of time, talent and money of thousands of individuals in a community effort that has been widely proclaimed.

The hospital is an institution already highly praised by experienced physicians and surgeons accredited to its medical staff as one of the finest and best equipped community hospitals in this part of the nation.

TO ASSURE giving all visitors a thoroughly informative look at the major departments of the hospital, a staff of 50 members of the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital will be on hand to conduct guided tours. At major points of interest, department heads and members of the staff will explain the principal functions of their departments.

Tours will be conducted throughout the afternoon, starting at 2:30 p.m. and continuing until 7:30 p.m.

The tour will take about 30 minutes, and will be concluded in the hospital cafeteria where refreshments will be served. Souvenir booklets describing the facilities and their construction will be given to visitors.

The tours will be preceded at 1 p.m. by brief dedication ceremonies in the hospital cafeteria at which the keys will be turned over by the architect to the building chairman and by him to Nicholas M. Lattof, chairman of the board of trustees. Upon his handing the keys to Alan Campbell, hospital administrator, the building will be officially opened for public inspection.

The ceremonies will be opened with invocation by the Rev. Robert E. Ehrgott, pastor of the St. John's Episcopal church, Mt. Prospect, and the benediction will be given by Rev. Harold T. O'Hara, pastor of Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church, Arlington Heights. Brief talks will be made by Dr. Allan A. Filek, regional health officer of the State of Illinois, and Robert Y. Paddock, vice president and business manager of Paddock Publications. Jack Hughes, chairman of the dedication committee, will preside, and musical selections will be performed by The Choraliers, Arlington Heights high school musical group under the direction of Robert Wolff.

CAMPBELL said announcement of the hospital's official opening to serve patients would be made in a few days, after all clearances and accreditations have been received.

Campbell noted that further recognition has recently been given the hospital with the inclusion of the Northwest Community hospital on an itinerary being followed by an Australian architect who is in this country visiting outstanding examples of modern hospital construction. The visitor, Peter Scrymgour, chief architect for the hospital department of Australia, is expected to visit here this week.

St. Theresa Hosts Cana Conference

Christian attitudes in the home will be discussed and debated by couples of the northwest suburban area Sunday, Nov. 29, in St. Theresa school hall, 445 N. Benton st., Palatine. Starting at 1 p.m. husbands and wives will pool their ideas and experiences in an effort to find some answers to the problems of married life. The discussion will be led by a specially trained priest representing the Cana Conference.

The Cana Conference is the church's answer to the startling increase in divorces and broken homes. It is an attempt to emphasize the real happiness that can be found in marriage with God's help and the proper information.

EVERY YEAR parishes throughout the city and suburbs sponsor a Cana Conference for married couples in their area. They take the name "Cana" from the wedding feast described in the Bible when Christ performed His first public miracle by changing water into wine.

Cana seeks to emphasize the "togetherness" in marraige. Husband and wife attend together, listen together, study together and pray together. In a special ceremony at the end of the afternoon they attend benediction and renew their marriage vows.

The Cana Conference continues from 1 to 6 p.m., with frequent breaks for discussion and refreshments. Married couples of all faiths are invited to attend. Reservations may be made by calling Mr. and Mrs. William Soltau, FL 8-4362, or Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller, TW 4-6465.

Park Fieldhouses Fully Utilized by Community

by JOEL CARTER

Have you wondered if the spacious fieldhouses in Recreation and Pioneer parks are utilized to their fullest extent? Park officials are often asked that question. The answer is a definite, yes. Nearly 50 organizations use Pioneer park for regular weekly or monthly meetings.

They include: boy scouts, girl scouts, square dance clubs, hobby clubs. church groups, women's clubs and home owner associations, to mention a few. These groups are issued a permit for the entire year which grants them use of a particular room for their meetings.

A great many organizations use the fieldhouse facilities on an individual date basis—that is, they reserve the facilities once or twice during the year for a special meeting or party. The fieldhouse is occasionally used for private birthday parties but most people prefer their own homes for this celebration.

THE MODERN fieldhouse in Pioneer park makes an ideal place for organizations to hold their meetings. The building sits in the center of 23 well landscaped acres. Folding chairs, tables, piano, and portable stage are available as are two modern kitchens complete with range refrigerator, cabinets, silverware, and coffee pots.

Recreation park fieldhouse is now being used mainly for athletics in our recreation program. When the roller skating rink closes at the end of this month, the fieldhouse will become an indoor sports center. Basketball table tennis, shuffleboard, table games, and other activities will be available afternoons, evenings and weekends for anyone who wants to play. An adult supervisor will be on duty to issue equipment and maintain order.

ALL ORGANIZATIONS using the fieldhouse fall into two categories—those who have free use of the facilities and those who are required to pay a nominal fee.

To obtain free use, organizations must meet four requirements. They must be 1) principally composed of residents of the park district, 2) non-profit, 3) open to everyone, and 4) have as their main objective the provision of recreation. If in the opinion of the Park Board, an organization meets these requirements, no fee is charged. Scout troops, Little League, Arlington Art Center, 4-H Club, and the Garden Club are examples of free-use groups.

Groups not meeting the requirements pay a fee of $10 for an auditorium and $5 for a smaller room. The rates increase to $20 and $10 when an admission fee is charged; when fund raising sales are conducted; or when individuals use the facilities for private parties, wedding receptions, or the like. Anyone using the fieldhouse for paid instruction purposes must pay a minimum fee of $5 per hour.

BECAUSE OF the great demand for meeting space by the many organizations in the Arlington Heights area, organizations are given preference over individuals when applications are reviewed and park district residents are given preference over non-residents.

The fieldhouse activities this week are:

The idea was conceived by Mrs. Eugene Rybski, who is also directing the project. Recipes for the dinner are exclusively from Maxim's of Paris. Senator Tells State's Educational Functions

by W. Russell Arrlington
State Senator,
4th Senatorial District

I had the very pleasant and unusual opportunity of addressing some 30 international educators this past week at Northwestern university. They are attending classes at the school of education at the university. This particular group consisted of representatives from 24 different nations. The class is conducted by Michael Ryan, who was principal for many years of Nichols school in Evanston and who is much esteemed and well loved by all of us whose children attended Nichols.

I was asked to address the group on the subject of the responsibility of the state with respect to education. In making this presentation, I made several observations which may be of interest to you.

UNDER THE FEDERAL constitution, the responsibility for education is reserved to the states respectively or to the people. Our Illinois Constitution provides simply that the General Assembly shall provide a thorough and efficient system of free schools, whereby all children of this state may receive a good common school education.

Under the foregoing constitutional authority, it is generally conceded that the state could, if it saw fit, manage completely the curricula, conduct, and entire operation of our schools. The state, however, has never chosen to exercise fully such broad authority.

On the contrary, the legislature has persistently recognized the desirability of local control of our school system. It has accordingly limited its authority primarily to prescribing the types of organization of the various school districts.

Thus, the legislature provides for the organization of schools into various types of school districts. It has specified that our common school system be divided into three types of districts. One is the so-called elementary district, consisting of grades beginning with kindergarten and continuing through the eighth grade — the so-called grammar school district. Another type of district is the so-called Secondary district, which covers grades 9 through 12 - the high-school district. A third type is the unit or dual district, having all grades beginning with kindergarten and extending through high-school.

But the governing authority in all such districts is boards elected by residents of the district with almost a complete control over school matters in that district.

THE STATE does provide certain minimums with respect to qualification of teachers and certain administrative processes. These are all in general terms, and the administration is conducted primarily at the local level.

The state further imposes certain top limits as to the amount of taxes which can be levied by the local districts.

The state also provides an extensive financial assistance to the local school districts. In some future article, the manner in which such state aid is provided and computed will be discussed.

It is significant, however, that the state imposes surprisingly few mandatory requirements with respect to the type and conduct of courses which are to be taught and provided. The state provides, for instance, that courses in American history and civics must be offered. It also specifies that instructions in certain general areas such as safety, physical education, nature and effect of alcoholic drinks and narcotics and the like are to be provided. It also requires the teaching of certain standards of moral conduct. Thus, instruction is required regarding kindness to animals, patriotism, virtues of honesty, kindness generally, justice and moral courage.

BUT THERE IS not a single prohibition against the teaching of any subject in our schools. The Legislature has been reluctant to impose any such prohibitions. This is consonant with the current belief that such matters are better handled by the local school authorities.

In spite of the launching of Sputnik, there is no requirement imposed by the state regarding the teaching of sciences. There is general agreement that local educators are best equipped to prescribe the details of the local schools' curriculum.

No one denies, I believe, that the legislature has complete authority to prescribe and fix, either in general or specific terms, the subject matter of courses to be taught. All professional educators concede this point. But the legislature and professional educators universally agree that the legislature should not serve as a board of education for our local schools. Rather, such authority should be left with and exercised by the locally elected school authorities.

In other words, there is demonstrably in this state a general agreement that our local schools should be permitted to operate with a minimum of interference by the state legislature.

Students Plan Trips To Capitol

Juniors at Prospect High and juniors and seniors at Arlington are now making reservations for an Easter vacation trip to Washington D. C.

Separate trips will be conducted for students of the two high schools. The Prospect tour begins April 11, with Arlington students leaving April 12. Both tours will last for five days visiting places of interest in and around Washington.

ALL JUNIORS and seniors are eligible to join these tours. The $165 cost of the trip includes round-trip air transportation, food, lodging, and other costs connected with the trip and places visited.

A moonlight cruise on the Potomac and visits to the White House, Washington Monument, Library of Congress, Voice of America, Smithsonian Institute, Mt. Vernon, Williamsburg, and Jamestown will highlight the tour.

Miss Delores Hudson, tour director at Prospect high, is making reservations and arrangements. A $25 deposit is due by December 22, payable to Miss Hudson or Mr. R. Grabitz, tour director at Arlington. (ACM

Animal Studies Show Stress, Anxiety Ties

A noted psychobiologist said last night that the study of stress and anxiety in animals is shedding much light on human problems.

Speaking at Forest hospital, Des Plaines, Dr. Howard S. Liddell of Cornell university told how conditioned reflex experiments on sheep and goats were helping to make clear the ties between stress, anxiety and illness.

The animals studies show, Dr. Liddell said, that stress and anxiety not only result in neurosis, but can bring on actual physical disease.

THE CORNELL scientist appeared as second lecturer in the hospital's annual scientific program devoted this year to recent developments in psychiatry. His talk was discussed by Dr. Thomas French, associate director of the Chicago Institute for Psychoanalysis.

Dr. Liddell told how research at the Cornell Behavior Farm laboratory had shown the importance of mother love in helping offspring to bear stress. He described the disastrous effects when young goats were separated from their mothers for a single hour after birth. Even though re-united at the end of the hour, the mothers neglected their offspring, avoided nursing them and did not protect the youngsters during play with older kids. Half of the youngsters died between three and six months of age.

One of the surviving animals was followed closely throughout her life. She responded poorly to conditioned reflex experiments, was sluggish and apathetic and was a bad mother. She gained no weight after seven months of age and died when only 26 months old.

EVEN THOUGH her son did not undergo separation from her, he suffered from her inability to provide proper maternal care. As a result he was undersized, underdeveloped sexually and had defective responses to his surroundings. Unable to bear the stress of the conditioned reflex experiments, he died before he was two years old.

In certain animals, Dr. Liddell noted, loneliness—an important stress factor — can lead to emotional breakdown and even death. Monkeys and dogs respond to isolation, he said, by becoming withdrawn and apathetic. In lambs and kids, he added, it can lead to fatal illness.

Monotony, confusion and over-stimulation, Dr. Liddell said, were other important stress factors being investigated in animals. Although, he added, different species show different initial reactions, stresses that create severe anxieties can cause permanent neuroses in all.

TV Western Star Visits Arlington

A visitor early this week at the John Pedersen home, 804 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, was TV star and Columbia recording artist Johnny Western, cousin of Mrs. Pedersen and nephew of her father, Elmer Westerlund who makes his home with the Pedersens.

Western is the author of the Paladin theme song of the TV series, "Have Gun, Will Travel" and has appeared in that show as well as in "Boots and Saddle," "Gunsmoke" and other currently popular western shows. He also appeared in the movie, "The Dalton Girls," and recently signed a 5-year contract with Columbia records which has just released his latest recording, "Only the Lonely."

WESTERN appeared Sunday in the Civic auditorium in Hammond, Ind. where the Pedersens and Westerlunds met him to bring him here for his first visit since 1956 when he was in Chicago with a Gene Autry show. Especially delighted with his stay at their home were the Pedersen children, Kenneth, George, Bonnie, Lorraine and Carol, confirmed Western western fans.

Monday night Western visited the local scout troop

Walther League Revives Sunday Bible Suppers

Under the guidance of Rev. Robert Bartz, members of St. Peter Lutheran church's Walther league, are reviving the Bible suppers, last held several years ago by the leaguers. The first of the suppers was held last Sunday in the home of Lin Clark and it is planned to continue the affairs throughout the year.

Friday, the 13th, members of the league gave a farewell party for Charles Rush in the home of Sharon and Donald Sass. Charles, who was graduated from Arlington high last year, left for Great Lakes naval station Monday for a 3-year training period.

State Senator Plans Re-Election Campaign

Sen. W. Russell Arrington (R., 4th), in announcing his candidacy for the state senate Thursday, asked for and received the unanimous support of the five Republican township committeemen in his district. The group met at Wenzlaff's restaurant, Wheeling.

Following Arrington's announcement, William N. Erickson, county commissioner and committeeman from Evanston, moved that the township political leaders endorse the senator's bid for a second full term. Henry A. Busse, Wheeling committeeman, seconded the motion and the voting was all in the affirmative.

"I wouldn't consider running again if I didn't have the support of my committeemen," the senator said. "I like the job, and I want it." Arrington said he has no other political ambitions "than to be senator of the fourth district."

THE FOURTH senatorial district includes the townships of New Trier, Evanston, Northfield, Niles, and Wheeling.

Erickson said the endorsement of the senator was personal and unofficial. He emphasized that the township political organizations would yet vote on an "official" candidate, and said:

"I don't doubt for a moment that such endorsements will be forthcoming. We are all glad to have such a capable, hard-working man in the senate as Russ Arrington."

Arrington indicated that he expected to run unopposed for his party's backing, and said that as of Thursday no candidates from either party had declared their candidacy for his seat.

ARRINGTON served in the Illinois house of representatives from 1944-54, and has been a member of the senate since 1954.

His chief interest, he says, is to maintain a watch over public funds. His record bears this out.

Senator Arrington has been chairman of the legislative audit commission since its creation in 1957. He was one of the principal sponsors for the variety of corrective measures covering financial operations of the state, which were adopted following the Hodge scandal.

Arrington was chairman of the joint legislative commission investigating public aid expenditures. He proposed and introduced an extensive legislative program to cure what he considers to be abuses in the public aid system. He has pledged himself repeatedly to work for the completion of this program.

THE SENATOR has been chief sponsor and leader in the fight for court reform. He also has been a member of the special committee of the school problems commission studying new sources of revenue to meet increasing school needs.

Public aid abuses are up for closer scrutiny by Arrington, who said Thursday:

"Nobody is proposing that we drop or abandon public aid, but I feel the program has assumed such large dimensions that a proper administration of it is almost impossible. It is my considered belief that there is not an adequate policing of the program, and that the rolls are loaded with people not eligible to receive relief. Neither is there any effective, perhaps not even energetic, effort being made to remove ineligibles from the rolls."

OF 12 proposals to cure abuses introduced by Arrington in the past two sessions of the legislature, two have been adopted. The first more clearly defines parental responsibility, and the second combines Cook county and City of Chicago welfare agencies.

If reelected, Senator Arrington pledges to "continue the fight for more responsible management of the public's funds." (ACM

Accident Fatality: Routine Assignment

by PHIL NELSON

The traffic signal at Rand and Gol roads was lying on its back in the center of the intersection still flashing green from where it lay as we arrived at the accident scene Monday night.

Des Plaines police were hauling away the smashed florist's truck on the side of which read "Busche's flower shop and greenhouse, Des Plaines."

ACROSS THE driver's seat, a crumpled coat or robe covered the blood stains. The driver's wheel was twisted and mauled out of shape.

"He was wrapped around the wheel," offered one policeman.

"Pretty bad," said a second. "Don't know if he'll make it; his head and internal injuries. Bad accident."

Larry Cameron, the photographer, was snapping pictures of the broken traffic light and the wrecked panel truck. It was a routine assignment, although we had raced across Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect to get there.

"Dead on arrival," reported the emergency room at Resurrection hospital.

HARVEY BUSCHE, 43, of 110 S. River, Des Plaines, owner of the Busche florists, had been traveling south on Route 12, Des Plaines police reported, when his truck struck the center of the light standard on the concrete divider. He was crushed against the wheel.

Police taped off the area of the fallen traffic light. The family of Busche was notified, and things settled back again into the dead quiet of night.

TESTIMONIAL to impact with which auto struck traffic signal light Monday night at the intersection of Golf and Rand rds. is the severed light stand above. A Des Plaines motorist was killed in the crash.

State Secretary Suspends Driver Licenses Here

Five residents of the Northwest suburban area had their drivers' licenses suspended for committing three moving violations and four others received probationary permits according to Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier.

Suspended were the licenses of: Clifford Hollensworth, 438 Country Line, Bensenville; William E. Schmalfuss, 4 N.360 Hawthorn, Bensenville; and Peter P. Tyche, 214 Navajo Trail, Buffalo Grove.

Given probationary permits were Frank Harris, 157 E. Dennis rd., Wheeling; Gerald P. Taylor, 238 Park ave., Bensenville; Lloyd J. Therriault, 411 Glencoe, Palatine; and Frank Tichy, 1011 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

Choir Tour Cancelled

Due to a sudden personnel shortage, the Wings over Jordan choir did not make its scheduled appearance in St. John United Church of Christ last Friday. The entire eastern tour of the choir was cancelled and word reached the sponsors too late to recall the publicity.

You Can't Take All for Granted

LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Some things can be taken for granted. such as the sunrise, the routine of the seasons, and the migration of birds; but most of the things we have in life can not; and if we do take them for granted, we are in a good way to lose them.

Our forefathers knew this, and every great war we have had since the revolution has been in defense of freedom. Thus, we still have our freedoms: the right to a fair trial, non-existant in many countries; the privilege of making ourselves wealthy if we have the determination and will to do so; to become a minister if we chose, or an accountant, or a bricklayer. We have this freedom because successive generations of American youth have fought and died on the field of battle to keep it so.

THERE ARE many other things that we can not safely take for granted. We can not assume that our neighbors will love us, unless we are good, and helpful neighbors, kind and friendly to them. You can not take for granted the love of your wife, your husband, your friends or your children. Human love is not an enduring thing. It can not be planted, to grow and flourish without nourishment, any more than a flower or vegetable can. It is something that has to be earned every day that we live.

Divorce courts are full of cases where love dies because one or the other or both parties to the marriage failed to feed and nourish the love they once had for each other. Hundreds of thousands of homes house unhappy marriages and disillusioned children, because selfishness is made king, and each member of the household lives to himself alone. Self pity and vanity poison the roots of love; and marriage without love is not marriage at all.

YOU CAN NOT take health for granted, but must keep yourslf healthy by eating right, exercising, and living a moderate, sensible life. Nor can you take salvation for granted, and continue to sin without repentance.

You must really believe that Jesus is your savior, that He died for you. You must believe it wholely and completely, and correct the errors of your way.

Travel Series Will Feature Alaska Trip

A trip to Alaska for a lumberjack's bold adventure will be the next visit on the calendar for the travel and adventure series at Prospect high school at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Don Cooper, whose films and stories have earned him audiences on television in the past few seasons, will take the group on a film-visit to the forty-ninth state.

The logging scenes show the panhandle's second largest industry, indicative of Alaska's booming paper pulp industry. Aerial views of Alaska's forests, one of the largest stands of virgin timber left on the North American continent, and scenes of Mount McKinley are among the highlights.

THE EXCITEMENT of a great hump-back whale, hurling its fifty tons out of the water, and the quiet charm of "Hidden Valley," reached only by passing through a mountain tunnel, introduce the audience to the contrasts of this frozen country. Wildlife is photographed in abundance; bear, fox, eagles, duck families, baby kingfishers, all living along a stream abounding in cutthroat trout.

Metropolitan Alaska is shown in the sojourn in Juneau, Anchorage, Fairbanks and Ketchikan, and the varying methods of travel to and about Alaska provide intriguing scenes.

IN CONTRAST to the cities so largely influenced by the settlers, views are also shown of the native villages: Yakutat, a typical coastal fishing village, and smaller settlements in the Yukon.

Not a "make-believe" lumberjack in any respect, Cooper was born and raised in the logging camps of western Montana. Son of the late Senator George Cooper, he has been fascinated by Alaska since he was able to read, and as soon as he was able to save enough for a ticket north he went to this intriguing land of glacier and snow.

Girl Scout News

Palatine

Girl Scout troop 341, an eighth grade group of Palatine girls, folded 2,500 letters for the Friends of the Library recently for its fall campaign. The girls also elected officers at their recent meeting: Susan Peters is chairman; Elizabeth Distler, co-chairman; Connie Babiarz, secretary; Cheryl Doty, treasurer; Sharon Hansen, reporter.

November 5 Mrs. Robert Nelson of Nelson's Flower shop in Palatine spoke to the troop on arrangements of dry weeds and flowers. The troop then entered an arrangement in the Palanois Park Garden club flower show held recently in Paddock school and won second prize in its class.

OUR FIRST THANKSGIVING DAY
The Pilgrims had less to thank God for than we. Their first crop was meager. Only half of them had lived through the year. But they had freedom of worship. They had peace, and the Indians brought in turkeys and venison. They had a hope which history has vindicated. Do you thank God for your blessings, or just congratulate yourself?

Although Michael Topp was 5 November 2, he began his celebration with a family dinner party Halloween. There was another party for him November 8, to which he invited Gary Braunsreuter, Gale Kamin, Terry Platt, David Mills, Kathy Donahue, Randy Smeltzer, Andrea Corn, Nancy Urban, Panela Rosheger, Michelle Intravartolo and Johnny Koriath. The children enjoyed the birthday cake and soda pop and then played games, and each child went home with a prize. Michael is the son of the George Topps, 810 N. Kennicott.

There were two birthday celebrations for Debbie Klippert. The first was Saturday, when she took a few friends to lunch at Rapps. They were Sharon Pierce, Jane Huff, Fran Robertson and Marge Seaman. The girls came back to Debbie's house after lunch. Sunday there was a family dinner for Debbie. Her parents are the C. A. Klipperts, 1003 N. Fernandez.

Tom Broadfoot, son of the William Broadfoots, 936 N. Kaspar, celebrated his eighth birthday Saturday with a party at home. Several school friends, as well as those from his neighborhood, were there, including Bob and Jeff Jensen, David Wiegel, Tom Pautz, Kieth Meyer, Charles Nelton, Jack Dabbert, Michael Sedecky and Tom's brother, Jim. There was ice cream and cake, complete with all the trimmings, and plenty of games to keep the boys entertained for the afternoon. Tom's grandparents came over for another celebration that evening.

Last week Laverne and Dick Lavers, 940 N. Fernandez, joined friends for dinner at the Maison Lafite before going to see "West Side Story." Laverne says it was marvelous and quite different from the run-of-the-mill musicals.

LEANA MARY Kozakari has been a member of the Jon Kozakari family, 916 N. Chicago, for a year and they celebrated the occasion Sunday with a birthday party for her. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Traikoff, came, as well as her uncle, Boris Traikoff, and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Radevich. The Rightmires and Mrs. Anna Adam were unable to be with them because of illness. Leana needed help from her mother to blow out the candle, but she cut the first piece of cake herself.

Saturday evening the Bob Balfours, 1208 Northwest hwy. went with the Jim Spiels and the Dick Ketzas to the Turkey Trot dance at the Legion hall, ending up at Gunnell's restaurant for a late snack.

The Al Kluesings and the Don Wheelers were on hand at the Turkey Trot dance Saturday evening. Al and Don are members of that post.

Lee and Herman Koeneman, 908 N. Fernandez, were guests of the Rauland company for Las Vegas night and dinner at the grand ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel Thursday night. They will join the Ed Bebbers Wednesday night for the midget football dinner at the high school.

Several Ridge Parkers attended the Firemen's dance last Saturday night at the VFW hall. Dave and Jenny Mills, 814 N. Kennicott, were there with the Ted Schoens and Al and Eleanor Nattz. Dave was on the committee.

The Bryants, 914 N. Ridge, are back from a quick trip to New York City, where they attended the wedding of his sister.

FROM SHERWOOD

The W. W. Holloways, 1004 Oakton, are back from a weekend with Janie and Sam in Lexington, Ky. It was the first time they had seen them since the wedding and they enjoyed seeing them and their apartment.

Raymond Burfeind, son of the Nat T. Burfeinds, 1130 N. Harvard, brought Al Blatter of Webster Groves, Mo., home with him for the weekend. The boys went up to Madison for the Illinois-Wisconsin game and spent the balance of the weekend with the Burfeinds, before returning to Champaign-Urbana. (A

HASBROOK REPORT

Making friends and creating understanding is important to everyone. It's especially important to a home builder, who needs all the cooperation he can get to smooth his operations and keep his costs down.

That's why we're starting a twice-monthly series of Hasbrook reports to run in this newspaper. This is the first report. I hope you will find it interesting and thought-provoking.

If you want to answer back with your own thoughts, fine. Exchanging facts and opinions is one way we can all work together to improve Arlington Heights.

Recently Hasbrook held a progress report dinner at the Rolling Green Country Club. It was extremely pleasing to me personally to see so many of our Arlington Heights friends turn out for this event.

We held the dinner to tell how far we've come since our first home went up in 1957. Now there are 300 Hasbrook homes, with approximately another 200 to be built and sold.

Another reason for the dinner was to discuss ways in which the home builder and suburban government officials can work together to keep housing costs down.

INFLATION has hit housing just as it has affected every other commodity. One of the things that disturbs us most is that many good families who need and would like a home are being priced out of the market.

For example, two years ago if you had a yearly income of $6,000 you could qualify to buy a Hasbrook home. Today, you need a minimum income of $8,000 a year to qualify.

The median yearly income of Arlington Heights families is $8,100. That means that half the families living in this village today couldn't qualify to buy one of our homes — which are the lowest-priced in the suburb.

WHAT CAN we do together to fight rising costs? I made several suggestions at the progress report dinner which I'd like to repeat.

The first way is for all of us to be receptive to new building materials and methods. Technology is constantly developing improved ways to building a better house at less cost. We're pleased that Arlington Heights has adoped many of these new methods.

WE RECENTLY computed what could be saved if every new worthwhile improvement were incorporated in the building code. The savings added up to 3 per cent. On a $22,000 home, this could mean a difference of $660, quite a substantial amount.

Pennies and dollars are extremely important to a volume builder such as Hasbrook. Rather than build a few houses at a large margin of profit per home, we choose to build many houses at a small profit margin. This leaves less room for cost increases and compels us to be as efficient as possible.

This leads directly to the second way of helping us hold costs down. That way is for officials to be as prompt as possible in approvals, permits, and inspections. Time is very important to a builder. It's the one factor over which we have some control, but we must have cooperation from officals to exercise this control.

MANY PEOPLE may ask: "Why should we help you, the builder, make a profit? That's your worry, not ours." This isn't quite true. Only a strong, healthy builder can make the valuable contributions that the village needs.

To illustrate: During 1956, before Hasbrook was created, 100 homes were built in the Wilson School District, but no contributions were made by the builders to the village.

Hasbrook, now building in the same school district, is paying $92,120 to the Wilson school. Another $125,000 has been donated to park board for the development of 14 acres of land that we donated. These contributions could not have been possible if we had not taken steps to keep costs down and profits normal.

THAT IS WHY rising costs threaten not only the builder, but his contributions to the community as well. Without these contributions, the community cannot easily solve the problems of a growing population.

Our usual winter has started and, of course, that means some pretty bad weather. These cold rainy days, the melting snow, and severe cold weather can all contribute to a bad cold. Now is the time to really start taking care of yourself.

Keeping plenty of Vitamins on the dining table is one way to build up a resistance to colds, but the inevitable will happen—the common cold will catch someone in the family. Naturally, that is the time to see your family doctor so he can prescribe a remedy for you. Then the place to come to get the prescription filled is—HARRIS PHARMACY. The common cold is nothing to fool around with—so, at the first sign of a cold, the very first warning that the "old debbil' flu" is about to get you—use caution and do what you should do. Even though we make our living filling prescriptions, we would rather see you healthy.

Rezoning Granted For Gas Station

Construction of a gas station at the northeast corner of Wilke and Algonquin rds., Elk Grove township, will be permitted by a rezoning amendment adopted Tuesday by the County Board.

The commissioners reclassified the three-quarter acre parcel from farming to business district. The action was taken on a petition for rezoning filed by Raymond Pingel, 1340 West Algonquin road, Arlington Heights.

Arlington Heights, whose nearest boundary is approximately one mile northeast of the land, opposed rezoning and was the only municipality to offer an objection.

APPROVAL WAS recommended by the County Zoning Board of Appeals. It said reclassification would be in the public interest and in accord with objectives of the zoning ordinance.

The zoning board noted the northwest corner of the intersection is within Rolling Meadows, whose officials offered no objection to rezoning. Neither did officials of Schaumburg Center, Mt. Prospect, and Elk Grove Village, the zoning board said.

HAROLD E. CARLSON, chairman of Arlington Heights' plan commission, and Albert Riley, president of Hasbrook Construction company, take off in helicopter from Hasbrook parking lot on Palatine rd. in helicopter for aerial inspection of village and Hasbrook subdivision. (A

Birds of the Chicago Area To Be Garden Club Topic

Birds of the Chicago Area will be Floyd Swink's subject in a talk illustrated with colored slides at the first fall meeting of the Arlington Heights Garden club at Pioneer Park field house, Monday, Nov. 23, at 8 p.m.

A social hour with refreshments will follow his talk, with Mrs. Glenn W. Johnson, Mrs. Leonard Luber and Mrs. Donald D. Florence as hostesses.

A PLANTER has been placed in the public library as a part of the club's civic program.

A reminder to members: there will be no regular meeting in December but a Christmas wreath workshop will be held Thursday, Dec. 10, and all interested members will be asked to sign up at the November meeting for workshop materials.

The public is invited to all Garden club meetings and non-members are asked to call the membership chairman, Mrs. E. S. Reinhard, CL 5-3226, for reservations and further information.

Scouts Clarify Paper Campaign

Despite the fact that a majority of the 22 Scouting units in Arlington Heights have decided to abandon the collection of old newspapers and magazines, about a half-dozen units still are interested in the fund-raising project and are completing plans for every other month pick-up.

Scouting officials pointed out that the declining market for paper among other factors resulted in the last few years in "not too much return for the efforts put into the drives."

ROY BENSON, who headed the paper drives, said the combined drives in the early 1950's netted the units from $3 to $4000. The sale of paper, collected in the most recent drive, brought only $750, he added.

He noted that this was not entirely due to a declining market, but to a lessened interest on the part of some Scouting units as well as paper collections by competing organizations.

An article in last week's "Arlington Heights Herald" stating that a paper drive would be held this Saturday was incorrect.

Mounting Hospital Costs Inevitable

Specialization Needs Grow; Hospital Payrolls Expanding

(This is the third in a series of four articles on the rising costs of medical care in the United States. This article — Hospital Cost and Care — will discuss the nature of hospital costs, the reasons behind their inevitable, upward climb, and what is being done to keep them in check. The article will also touch on pharmaceutical costs and profits to hospitals and drug manufacturers.)

by TED SMART

A suburban father, recently confronted with a $200 hospital bill for his wife's maternity care, reviewed the hospital's charges for her five-day stay and exploded last week:

"This bill is ridiculous. That's $40 a day, and she was in a five-bed ward."

He then went on to compare the facilities offered his wife to those of a first-class hotel in nearby Chicago.

"Why, at the best hotel in town she could have had a suite of rooms, room service for all her meals, and enjoyed swimming pool privileges for less than that."

This kind of comparison the American Hospital association finds "odious."

"For one thing," says Mrs. Marjorie Lawson, a public information official of AHA, "hotel linen need not be sterile, hotels do not operate on a ratio of 2 employees for each guest, and hotels do not purchase and maintain expensive equipment and personnel."

AND SO THE argument runs. The public, noting the similarity in accommodations between hospitals and hotels, is quick to pick up the comparison, often overlooking the dissimilarities which are the prime factors in the mounting costs that face every hospital in the nation.

America's general hospitals in the majority are nonprofit institutions, exempt from federal and local taxes and are supported in the main by the communities they serve. They receive donations from the public, large philanthropic gifts from the few, and federal grants in aid in addition to their tax-exempt status.

One spanking new hospital serving northwest suburban Chicago was opened recently at a cost of almost $3 million. Of this sum, more than half was contributed by private subscriptions, $600,000 came from a federal Hill-Burton grant, and a relatively small mortgage of $650,000 was taken out on the physical plant. In addition, the local community was asked to kick in another half million dollars for initial operating costs.

DESPITE ITS prosperous location, its initial financial support, and an able administrator pledged to keep costs down, this hospital will have a rough time supporting itself, say hospital association officials.

Had this hospital opened in 1945, the average patient cost per day would have been $9.85, of which 50 per cent would have gone to meet payrolls. Today, the patient must pay about $32 for each day of care, 61 per cent of which will go for payroll disbursements.

Another major contributor to the upward price spiral that climbs at 6 per cent a year is new and exotic equipment, new drugs, new methods of treatment, and the growing army of technicians needed to dispense this treatment.

Some of the medical advancements in the past 15 years have eliminated many costly health problems. Surgery and chemotherapeutics have closed many tuberculosis wards. The Salk vaccine may do away with the need for special equipment and facilities needed for those stricken by polio. Tranquilizers may reduce further the ravages of mental illness, and new antibiotics have knocked out many illnesses in their first stages, thereby keeping people out of hospitals, says Dr. Edwin L. Crosby, director of the AHA.

BUT AT THE same time costs rise because of continued specialization. Eye, bone, skin, blood and blood vessel banks have arrived on the hospital scene, and radioisotopes are being applied in wondrous new ways. These new discoveries will continue to force medical bills upward even should the nation plunge into economic depression, most observers agree.

Fluctuating patterns of occupancy, too, contribute to hospital costs, says David M. Kinzer, executive director of the Illinois Hospital Association. One week a hospital may average 20 obstetrical patients a day, and the next week the average may drop to five. Still, he says, a hospital must staff for the peak.

Kinzer attributes public pressure to mounting costs. The public media informs the public of the new discoveries and advancements in treatment, "and everyone wants them."

"We've been told: 'Cut out the frills.' Yet, these are the same people who want air conditioning," the IHA official said last week.

ONE CHICAGO hospital paid $500,000 for a linear accelerator, and only a relatively few people are treated with it. Another hospital paid $1,300 for an eye magnet to remove steel particles, and it was used five times in four years. The hospital, then on DC current, was later converted to AC and had to buy a new eye magnet, Kinzer said.

Hospitals are confronted with other economic woes, including competition from each other. The new hospital of which we spoke now stands alone on a 30-mile line between Evanston and Elgin. Soon, however, it will be joined by three others in nearby suburbs. While these communities are in need of these hospitals, what of the more distant hospitals that now serve the areas? Empty beds, says Kinzer, cost about half as much to maintain as do occupied beds.

Both in and out of hospitals, the public is socked with rising drug costs. Despite statements by the Health News Institute and the Health Information Foundation, both disseminators of pharmaceutical information that the average prescription cost is $3, the man on the street remembers the $6, $7, and $8 he paid out recently for high-priced antibiotics. He remembers paying 25 cents for a dozen aspirin tablets when he sees another brand sold in a grocery chain selling at 10 cents a hundred.

A BIOCHEMIST with a Ph.D. told Paddock Publications last week that the wholesale cost of penicillin is about 2 cents for a million units, about 1 cent for an injection of a half-million units. "Yet," he said, "try to get an injection for less than $5."

The biochemist declined to be identified. Let's call him Dr. X.

"For an idea of how much profit is in the manufacturing end of the business," he said, 'take a look at the stock market. The dividends paid by pharmaceutical houses are generally higher than other high-yield, speculative stocks."

When confronted with these arguments, the drug industry points to the many years and high costs of research that go into new drugs to justify its prices — about $190 million this year. Penicillin, our biochemist points out, was developed in Great Britain.

American drug manufacturers, it is true, do spend millions in the development of a single product. The first milligram of vitamin B12, said Dr. X, came from more than a ton of beef liver, and probably cost $1 million in research.

TODAY, 90 per cent of the public's drug money is spent on pharmaceutical products that were unknown 10 years ago, said Dr. X in pointing out new products developed in the field. He estimated that 6 per cent of gross sales go directly into research.

While this 6 per cent represents millions annually, it is very little more than the cost of supplying physicians with free medicinal samples, according to Health News Institute figures.

According to Dr. X, drug manufacturers usually mark up their products 40 per cent, with the hospital marking them up an additional 40 per cent or more.

To say that American hospitals are not aware of the serious nature of the cost spiral or are indifferent to it would be grossly unfair. But some of the methods they have used to keep them in bounds, to put it kindly, are archaic, says one critic. He is Victor Gotbaum, Chicago-Cook county director of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, who is the moving force behind the current strikes at two Chicago hospitals. Referring to the nontechnical employees of hospitals as "the forgotten people of labor," Gotbaum said recently:

"When we went into Mt. Sinai hospital last June to organize, we found the minimum wage was 88 cents an hour. After we started to organize, pay was raised to $1.15. They somehow find the money when they want to keep the union out."

GOTBAUM referred to the hospital's wage hike as "unadulterated bribery," and said:

"Despite this bribery, we had 300 out of 350 workers go out on strike."

At Chicago's Home for the Incurables — a name at which he shudders — Gotbaum "found conditions even worse."

"Here, in June," he said, "employees were working for as little as 68 cents an hour. Again, when we started to organize, they jumped it to $1 an hour."

While it is possible for some to dismiss the statements of a labor organizer as biased, and possibly not altogether factual, a government report published last May bears out Gotbaum's contention that hospital workers are underpaid.

In a study by the department of labor of Chicago hospitals — where earnings are above the national level — maids, laundry workers, dishwashers, and kitchen help averaged $1.08 an hour, with some hospitals reporting hourly rates under 50 cents.

MOST RESPONSIBLE hospital officials are aware of low wage scales, and some have pledged to raise them. Ray E. Brown, president of the Illinois Hospital Association, agreed with the bureau of labor statistics report in a speech October 28 in Peoria. Speaking at a conference of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries, he noted some progress in recent years at raising hospital wages and said:

"If we are to attract the necessary skills to render modern hospital service, further salary increases will be necessary."

A former president of the AHA, Brown told his women listeners that "the survival of the voluntary hospital system depends on the prompt solution of this problem."

Keeping salaries down has not been the only method employed by hospitals of paring pennies off the medical dollar. According to IHA's David Kinzer, hospitals are conducting courses and experiments in reducing paper work, streamlining functions and techniques, and in general studying industrial methods that have paid off.

Kinzer says these methods have limited use in hospitals, however, because of "The nature of a hospital — its individual services."

"A nurse cannot refuse to come to a patient's bedside when she is summoned. For the patient it could be a traumatic experience," he says.

"Progressive patient care" is another system under experimentation at a few hospitals around the country. Under trial at Manchester Memorial hospital, a couple of miles from Hartford, Conn., for three years now, the plan shows "great promise," says Kinzer.

PPC STARTED at Manchester and its main feature is that it pinpoints hospital employees and services where they are most needed. The hospital is divided into four parts: areas for the very sick, the "middling" sick, those not very sick, and those who require continuing but not very intensive care.

The plan, which focuses care and attention where and when it is most needed, received its start with a grant from the U.S. public health service. Patients like it, doctors and nurses like it, and insurance companies like it because it has reduced hospital costs by about 20 per cent.

But, say hospital officials, while PPC is a ray of sunshine, it is only that — a ray — a little glimmer of light.

THE AMERICAN Hospital association makes six predictions on future hospitals and hospital costs:

—New and additional controls will be imposed on hospitals by government and private agencies;

—The comprehensiveness of care and the scope of services will increase. New equipment will be added, methods of anesthesia will continue to become more complicated;

—There will be greater participation in financing of hospitals by all levels of government;

—There will be a reduction in the duplication and activities in hospitals;

—Educational programs in hospitals will be shifted to the community. Schools of nursing will be supported directly by the government instead of through hospitals; and —Prepayment plans will have increased controls by government.

(Next week: The fourth and final article in the series will discuss prepayment plans, government participation in hospital expenses, and will examine the question, Is "socialized" medicine inevitable?)

Square Dance Club News

Bucks and Does

Guest callers and many other dance enthusiasts in the area joined Elk Grove club members last Saturday night at the Bucks and Does pre-Thanksgiving party dance for one of the biggest dance events of the year at Higgins school in Elk Grove. As many as 14 squares were dancing at one time and when everybody else stopped to catch their collective breath, guest callers Gene and Edna Arnfield gave an exhibition dance.

Other guest callers spelling the club's regular, Bob Kim, were Mickey Prymek, Emery Henderickson and Bob and Zella Lewis, all able and popular Chicago area performers.

According to pleased and justifiably proud dance committee members everyone reports having had a real hoedown and three lucky prize-winners Larry Young, Bert O'Connell and Clarence Van Marter each went home one turkey richer than when they came to dance.

The club's next dance is the Saturday after Thanksgiving and club officers guarantee there is no pleasanter way to get rid of Thanksgiving-gained weight than to dance it off. Temporarily overweight or not, however, everyone is invited to come to Higgins school where Frank Walker will begin the calls at 8:30.

Swingin' Squares

The Swingin' Squares extend a sincere "We missed you," to their caller Bing Bengson who was in Resurrection hospital instead of the Recreation park field house on the night of the club's most recent dance, November 6. Bing sustained a triple leg fracture in an automobile accident October 20, was released from the hospital Monday and hopes to be back calling in a couple of weeks.

Don Finfrock, club co-caller with Bing, got a helping hand at the last dance from guest callers Bob Kim and Harry Ryan. He'll be at the Recreation park field house tomorrow night, too, for the Swingin' Squares regularly scheduled do-ci-doings at 8:30. Everybody's welcome.

CLUB OFFICERS announce the date of their annual Jamboree, the club's "main event" of the year, and suggest that all dancers in the area reserve Saturday, Jan. 30, for attending that dance. All square dancers, from beginners to advanced, will be provided with dancing opportunities at all levels in three halls, and committee members report that every couple, beginner, recent graduate, intermediate or advanced, will find enjoyable dancing January 30 in South Junior high school, Arlington Heights.

Past attendance at Swingin' Squares Jamborees indicates there will be 50 squares made up of dancers from all over the Northern Illinois area and some from far away who make an annual pilgrimage to this event. As other plans develop they will be announced here. (A13

Peter, son of Mary Louise and Dieter Burkhardt, 1507 Clarendon, 2 November 7, celebrated his birthday at a family dinner party last Sunday. Wishing him many happy returns were his sisters, Mary Jo and Suzanne, and brothers, Chris and Curt, maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mae Mammoser, and aunt, Miss Dorothy Mammoser, both of Chicago.

A birthday party was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mary Lee and Clayton Lyons, 1248 N. Race, in honor of their son, Dick, who was 4 that day. Enjoying the party festivities, were his brother, Tommy, sister, Jane former playmates, Linda and Jan Riefstahl, Kurt Davis, Randy Lechelt, Paul Hacker, George Wilmot, Kathy Lynn Jeffrey, Julie Trees, Mark and Ann Reynolds and George Dixon, the latter three being friends from Palatine. Not to be overlooked was the presence of Dick's grandmother, Mrs. Ted Lyons, here on a visit from her home in New York.

Carol, daughter of Margaret and Frank Chupich, 1316 N. Yale, was 9 November 14, and her sister, Gail, Jackie Rollefson, Tara Montgomery, Leslie Bang, Claire Lowell, Mary Lynn Reese and Rae Kuntsman shared the festivities with her. The girls had fun doing something a bit different, in that the Chupichs presented each girl with a series of tickets to make their own selection of games at the Fun Fair at Wilson school Saturday. The girls then returned to the Chupich home to enjoy birthday cake and ice cream.

A dinner party was held Saturday evening for Carol, and singing happy birthday to her were her parents, sister, maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hedwig Anderson, and aunt, Miss Edith Anderson, both of Des Plaines.

Sunday afternoon Carol was honored at a birthday dinner party at the home of her godfather, Earl Peterlinz, Chicago. Wishing her many happy returns of the day were her parents, sister, Mrs. Peterlinz and the Peterlinz' children, Linda and Eddie.

HELPING Joanne, daughter of Jo and Robert Diedon, 1318 N. Race, to celebrate her third birthday last Sunday at a family dinner party were her brother, James, paternal grandmother, Mrs. Henry Diedon, and aunt, Miss Anna Diedon, both of Chicago, as well as aunts, uncles and cousins from Wilmette.

Helen and Jack Martin, 1337 N. Chicago, entertained their duplicate bridge group last Sunday night. Spending a pleasant evening at cards and enjoying dessert and coffee were Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Schmoyer, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bright, Mrs. Bruno Waara, Mrs. Pat Randle and two friends from Chicago and Des Plaines.

A family dinner party was held Thursday night at the home of Mary Ellen and Eugene Van De Merkt, 1231 N. Wilke, in celebration of their daughter, Patty, 11 that day. Guests were Patty's brothers, Johnny and Larry, sister, Judy, Mrs. Harold Pease, Palatine, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson, Evanston.

Friday evening, Marlene Petersen, a school friend of Patty's, was a guest at the Van de Merkt home for dinner and remained as an over night guest. The girls readily admit sleep was at a minimum.

Expecting only an evening kaffee klatsch, Dorothy Chase, 1301 N. Chicago, was surprised last Tuesday night at an after-the-baby shower held in the home of Dorothy Catlin, 1609 W. Olive. Guests included Jerri Rix, Betty Gumz, Jo Rozdalovsky, Adele Yore, Jackie Koenig and Carol Clarkson, who presented Dorothy with gifts for her new son, David. After catching up on the neighborhood chit-chat and playing games, refreshments were served from a table centered with the inevitable stork and diaper, with even the nut cups shaped and covered in diaper fashion.

ARRIVING LAST Saturday to spend a week with her daughter and family, the Dean Arnolds, 1410 N. Race, was Mrs. Hal Stoner, Garrett, Ind. Virginia was delighted, as she hadn't seen her mother since last summer, and naturally, the Arnold children, John and Jimmy, are enjoying due attention from their grandmother.

Last Saturday night guests at the home of Doris and Arnold Silver, 1247 N. Chicago, were Jerri and Bill Rix, Hal and Herb Trowe, Betty and Bob Gumz and former neighbors, Dee and Al Perry. The pleasant evening was topped off with a buffet supper.

Friends of Michael, son of Sue and Michael Caprara, 1217 N. Chicago, went "nutty" last Saturday afternoon after accepting an invitation to his birthday peanut party, but all agreed that a wonderful time was had playing more peanut games than they thought could have existed. The festivities included prizes, balloons, birthday cake, ice cream and favors for all; cars for the boys and a paddle and ball for the girls. Wishing Michael a happy sixth birthday were his brothers, Joey and Nicky, Kathy Narup, Booner Kalous, Tommy and Bobby Lussier, John Patrick and Jamie Noon, Steven Sucher, Jimmy Marshall and Greg and Janae Shafer. Although invited, Laurie Miller, was unable to attend. To top off this afternoon, each child was presented with a bag of peanuts to take home.

Having left his wife, Jean, and son, Don, at home, Lt. Com. William Derrick, USN, 1212 N. Illinois, departed November 8 on an annual military training cruise to the Mediterranean area, with stop-overs to be made at Port Lyautey, North Africa, Morocco, Madrid, Paris, London and Rome. Bill is executive officer of Squadron VR 722, based at Glenview Naval air station. No doubt he will take advantage of this opportunity to once again see parts of the world, but, at the same time, will welcome the return home November 24, in time to be with his family for Thanksgiving.

Fun from early morn to late evening was in the cards for Pauline and John Noerenberg, 1235 N. Race, Pat and Elm Lechelt, 1247 N. Race, and Pat and Don Kieffer, 1232 N. Chicago, last Saturday, as the couples shared in the festivities of the Wisconsin university homecoming at Madison. After cocktails and lunch at the Edgewater hotel there, they changed into proper attire for an exciting cold weather football game. With their loyalties split, not all were happy with the outcome, but all agreed that it couldn't have been more exciting. The outing was further celebrated at the Cuba club and then dinner on the way home.

THE FIRST birthday of Maureen, daughter of Jane and James Coleman, 1411 Clarendon, was celebrated last night at a family dinner party, which included her sisters, Patricia and Colleen.

Free Turkeys At KC Meeting

Free turkeys will be the highlight of the semi-monthly meeting of Holy Rosary Council Knights of Columbus at 8:00 p.m. tonight, November 19, in the basement hall of St. James Church in Arlington Heights.

There will also be a catered spaghetti and meat ball "snack" following the meeting and other refreshments will be served.

DURING THE brief business meeting three new officers will be installed: Chancellor William Hessler of 1118 E. Northwest hwy; Warden Eugene E. Dougherty of 1417 Wilke rd; and Financial Secretary Al Zimmer of 417 North Yale ave. All are residents of Arlington Heights.

There will be six free turkeys raffled to members in attendance. Raffle chances will be sold on an additional eight to 10 turkeys and these will also be given away. (A

Her new brother, Michael, was on hand, too, but a bit young for active participation.

Just having been in their new home at 1337 N. Race a short time, June and John Kelly are also parents of a new son, James Lawrence, born October 29 in Loretto hospital, Chicago, and weighing 6 pounds 10 ounces. James has a 10-month-old brother, John. Grandparents are Mrs. Catherine Kelly, Oak Park, and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Staniforth, Chicago, with whom June and the baby stayed for 10 days before returning home.

A luncheon-card party, for the benefit of the Northwest Community hospital fund, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Isabel Nottoli, 1227 N. Race. In attendance were Rae Gillespie, Eleanor Driscoll, Carolyn Polachek, Madeline Mooney, Lola Fortier, Sally McCormick and Arlyne Janata.

Laura Marie, daughter of Joan and Frank Zaucha, 1409 N. Race, was baptized Sunday afternoon at St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, with Rev. George Roth officiating. Godparents were Joan's brother, Donald Fortney, Chicago, and Miss Sheila Bossung, Oak Park. A buffet supper was served to guests later in the day. Helping to celebrate the happy occasion were the baby's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Fortney and Mrs. Laura Zaucha, and great aunt, Mrs. Susan Conway, all of Chicago.

Leaving their daughters, Cynthia, Patricia and Kelly, in capable hands at home, Jeanette and William Gaffney, 1405 N. Illinois, recently enjoyed a 10-day vacation trip, the main stop of which was Las Vegas, Nev. However, not to be overlooked, says Jeanette, was the trip there, which took them through the Grand Canyon, Painted Desert and the Petrified Forest. They also saw Boulder Dam. The Gaffneys stayed at the Sands hotel, where they enjoyed the Sammy Davis Jr. show. Another highlight was viewing the famed Lido de Paris show at the Stardust hotel. Other than just relaxing, enjoying prepared meals and, of course, losing more money than they won, says Jeanette, it was just wonderful to have the change of pace.

An after-school party was the order of the day last Friday for Jenny, daughter of Diane and Sheldon Staubitz, 1447 N. Race. She was joined in celebrating her sixth birthday by her brothers, Andy and David, and sister, Laura, as well as by 16 friends from school and playmates. The children played games, won prizes, enjoyed birthday cupcakes and ice cream, picnic style, and received favors.

Saturday evening a birthday dinner party was held in Jenny's honor. Present beside her parents, brothers and sister, were her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Staubitz, and friends of the family.

Savings & Loan's Dividend Rate Up

A new dividend rate of four per cent on all savings accounts will be paid by Arlington Heights Federal Savings beginning January 1, 1960.

Paul E. Collins, president, announced that the Federal Savings board of directors passed a resolution to this effect at its monthly meeting Monday evening at the Campbell street offices.

"Careful analysis of present experience and future trends prompted the board's decision that the next six-month period will warrant an increase from the present 3½ per cent rate," Collins said.

HE OBSERVED that the present trend toward higher interest rates on mortgages will mean higher income to those whose savings dollars are being lent.

A solid 65 per cent growth in savings capital in the past 12 months was noted by board Chairman Charles H. Wilson, who praised the Federal Savings officers and staff for their enterprise and sound management.

"The association's encouragement of thrift has been a great boon to the northwest suburban community," Wilson said. "It is meeting the demand for home-financing dollars — a demand which means greater returns for savers."

Wilson pointed out that Federal Savings dividends "will continue to reflect the earning power of your savings." Factors that move the price of money upward can be replaced by factors that bring it down, he warned.

He summarized the board's satisfaction with its growth in total assets — from $10,750,000 to $15,268,000 — since the move last December into the association's new Wilmot-Campbell st. at Evergreen ave. (ACM

Currency Exchange Has New Ownership

Ownership of the Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights currency exchanges changed last week, with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lent of Niles purchasing the two businesses.

"We hope to make whatever changes are necessary in operation of the two exchanges to suit the requirements of the community," stated Mrs. Lent, who will be manager and may be found at one or the other office every day.

She will solicit suggestions from customers how the service may be improved at both locations. "Hours will be changed to accommodate the people," she assured. The offices are open now from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

MRS. ERMA Larson will stay on as teller at the Rolling Meadows office, located at 3100 Market Plaza in the shopping center. Harry Seitz is teller at the Arlington Heights office, 6 W. Campbell.

Mrs. Lent will join the Rolling Meadows Businessmen's association at next Tuesday's meeting, and plans to join a similar organization in Arlington Heights. "We intend to take an active part in the business life of both towns," she said. (AK

Maine High Rated Among '44 Best'

Maine Township high school has been listed among the "44 best schools" of the nation, one of eight in Illinois.

In a survey conducted by the Geneva (Illinois) Citizens Council in which questionnaires were sent to professors and administrators at 120 leading American colleges and universities to discover which high school consistently supplied them with the best-qualified students, the names of 44 schools turned up repeatedly, including Maine Township high school.

ILLINOIS HIGH schools listed, all in the Chicago suburban area, were Evanston, Glenbrook, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Lyons, Maine, New Trier, and Oak Park. Wisconsin led the midwest states with ten schools. Indiana had four schools; Ohio, two; and Michigan, one.

All of these schools employ full-time guidance counselors, the colleges reported, and most of them use ability grouping in challenging their students to make progress consistent with their abilities. Maine has introduced this policy in English, mathematics and science. These schools also have strong English, foreign language, mathematics, social studies and science departments. (B8

Arlington Debaters Win Meet

Arlington high school varsity debaters Saturday won eight rounds for a clean sweep in an invitational tournament at La Grange.

A team consisting of Arlington students Marilyn Nelson, Richard Schultz, Carol Berthold, and John Moulton went undefeated in varsity competition.

THE HIGH SCHOOL was represented by 17 debaters in the varsity, sub-varsity, and beginner areas, and had a total record of 24 wins and eight losses.

In the beginners division, the team of Jay Lemke, Charles King, Robert Sielken, Robert Bliss, and John Shaw won seven debates and lost one. Another beginning debate team, including Nancy Kruk, Linda Krueger, Georgene Hall, and Kenneth Schmidt won six debates and lost two.

THE ARLINGTON debaters also took part in a tournament at North Chicago Friday, compiling a record of 10 wins and eight losses.

For the entire week-end, 24 debaters participated with an over-all record of 34 wins and 16 losses.

Bernard Brock, debate coach, accompanied the students on both trips. (ACM

THE OHIO OIL COMPANY PROUDLY ANNOUNCES ITS...

NEWEST DISTRIBUTORS OF MARATHON OIL PRODUCTS
Ed Hummel and Bill Martel

Our newest distributors in your area really don't need an introduction. Many of you will recognize Ed (right) and Bill (left) as "old hands" in the oil business; others of you know them as community friends and neighbors of long standing. We, at Ohio Oil, are mighty proud to have them on our team — as the H&M Oil Company.

In their new affiliation, Ed and Bill will be serving you and your neighbors with the full line of fine Marathon petroleum products—including Marafuel Heating Oil—the really clean-burning oil that gives you the highest heat content you can buy . . . and the easiest way to pay!

In case of sickness or accident, your heating oil costs you nothing under the Marafuel Budget Plan. If you're laid-up for more than fifteen days, the Budget Plan provides you oil without cost. In case of death, the entire balance due is automatically paid by Marathon.

Add to this our new Printed Metered Delivery Ticket! No mistake about it . . . you get the gallonage you pay for — automatically recorded by the Print Meter. Too, we think you'll find the novel Degree Day Automatic Delivery Service a pleasant relief from years past. Marathon automatically determines in advance just when you will need your next tank of oil—and delivers it! Convenient?—you bet!

So, for the best in service—the best in clean Winter comfort, look to Marafuel heating oil. For information or service, call or drop in on Ed Hummel or Bill Martel at H&M Oil Company, 515 West Colfax, Palatine, Phone FLanders 8-3600 or FLanders 8-3601.

"THIS WAY IT'S FUN..."

. . . says Mrs. Diane Libby of 139 North Merrill Ave. in Park Ridge, Ill. "Well, it's almost fun — and so-o-o easy! I figure my whole trip to CITIZENS BANK and back takes just 96 seconds.

"I'm not fooling. The mailbox on my corner is just like a tellers window at CITIZENS. I can do everything there — make deposits, borrow money, pay it back, cash checks (Yes, CITIZENS will even send me cash by registered mail.), and of course I pay all my bills with my CITIZENS checks at the same place.

"It's really the only way to bank, with my busy days. I don't even have to look for a stamp. CITIZENS pays the postage both ways.

"They're awfully thoughtful about things like that . . . on my checking account I get free checkbooks and free checks with my name printed on them (that's free, too!) And on my savings account I get the highest interest anywhere around — that includes all of Chicago too — plus the same mailing privileges on savings and withdrawals. It's wonderful.

"One of these day's I'll find the time to stop by CITIZENS in person. (I love those tellers cages that 'pop up' out of the ground, where you sit in your car and talk through the microphone.) But meanwhile I'll just keep on visiting good old Tellers Window Number 5627 right on my corner."

How about you? If your days are busy too, just call TALCOTT 3-1155 or (in Chicago) NEWCASTLE 1-4270 and ask about Citizens' Bank-by-Mail privileges.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

ILLINOIS BY one touchdown!

OK, all you Northwestern followers, we're ready for a rebuttal.

We rarely devote this column to a forthcoming college football game, but as an Illinois grad, surrounded by NU alumns at the newspaper, we feel something must be said about this key Big Ten clash Saturday in Champaign.

Few football games ever possess the ingredients which make Saturday's clash a box office dream. Here is a Northwestern team fighting to stay alive in the Rose Bowl picture. Here is an Illinois team which came from behind to stop Wisconsin in last Saturday's TV thriller. Here is the farewell appearance of the dean of Big Ten coaches, Ray Eliot.

BILL BROWN

The Illinois-Northwestern rivalry has always been one of the outstanding attractions of college football. Both schools have had their ups and downs in football, but they're definitely above-average this fall.

Northwestern started off fast, despite a series of key injuries, but Ara Parseghian's Wildcats have now taken a sudden reversal of form, dropping two straight to Wisconsin and Michigan State.

Illinois has played possibly the roughest schedule in the country, catching five of its opponents when they were rated among the nation's elite. Eliot's final aggregation has picked up four victories and one tie in eight contests.

Both clubs possess big, hard-hitting lines. Northwestern's Jim Andreotti is as good a center as you'll find in collegiate ranks this fall. Illinois has Bill Burrell, a 205-pounder who is an All-American guard if there ever was one.

Both clubs possess capable backfields. Northwestern's Ron Burton is a dangerous break-away threat, equipped with tremendous reactions and speed. Mike Stock gives the Wildcats power up the middle, and Ray Purdin and John Talley round out the starting backfield alignment.

Talley has filled in for the injured Dick Thornton and although he has done an adequate job, he's no Thornton.

Illinois has one of the most promising fullbacks in the country in Bill Brown, a 210-pound junior. Brown is starting to come into his own, and his performance against Wisconsin last Saturday was an impressive effort. In addition, the Illini have a :09.6 sprinter in Soph Johnny Counts, who could break any game wide open with his elusiveness. But Counts has a tendency to fumble—a tendency not uncommon among Illinois backs in the past few years.

Soph Mel Meyers and junior Johnny Easterbrook handle the Illini's quarterbacking with soph Ethan Blackaby and junior Marshall Starks operating at the halfback slots with Counts.

Not one key individual in Illinois' offensive backfield will graduate next June, giving Eliot's successor as head coach a nice package to work with in 1960.

Eliot's retirement brings us to the final item in these pre-game ramblings.

Coach of the Year in 1951 and head man at the University of Illinois for 17 seasons, Ray Eliot will bow out of coaching after Saturday's finale. He has produced three conference champions and has only finished in the cellar once.

Yes, Illinois appears to have a lot going for it for Saturday's contest.

As Northwestern's Parseghian has said, "It's tough enough to play a Ray Eliot-coached team. But this year we have to catch them in Champaign and in Ray's final game as head coach."

We like Illinois by one touchdown, 20-13.

Now, we'll sit back and listen to our cohorts expound on the reasons Northwestern's Wildcats will win Saturday afternoon.

Quick quote from Illinois athletic director Doug Mills after the Illini's last second, 9-6 win over Wisconsin last Saturday in a televised game: "With such a dramatic finish, I wonder if they'll accuse us of one of those TV fixes and conduct a congressional investigation!"

Lectures, Scrimmage On Docket

The public is invited to a special Prospect high coaches and parents basketball meeting Saturday afternoon in the PHS gymnasium.

Slated to open at 1 p.m., the session will consist of a discussion of vorious phases of basketball by the Prospect coaching staff and then a scrimmage by the Knights' varsity.

Among the topics of discussion will be rules interpretation, shooting techniques, ball handling, defense, 1-3-1 pivot offense, and training and attitude.

Art Serfling, Dick Kinneman, Larry Wyllie, Lou Schairer, and Ted Wissen will be the principal speakers.

KINNEMAN, Prospect's varsity coach, has been pleased with the desire shown by the squad thus far in practice but stressed there still is a lot of work to be done.

The Knights are trying to smooth out their offense with fundamentals also taking up a large share of the workouts.

Kinneman feels the boys "have the desire to do this year what everyone expects them to do next year," when they're experienced in varsity competition.

THREE TRANSFERS may help out the Knights' varsity. George Pomey, a 6-3 junior, moved in from Grant high and George McRae, 5-11 junior who also played varsity football, transferred from New Trier where he was a starter as a soph. Rich Bachhuber, a 6-2 performer, is a transfer from LaGrange where he was a reserve on the Lions' sophomore aggregation.

In addition to Pomey and Bachhuber, six boys on the current Knights' varsity top 6-0 in height. Dick Palmer heads the group at 6-4 with Bill Zadel 6-3, and Tommy Thomas, a soph, and Bob Glaser both 6-1. It's still questionable whether Thomas will remain with the varsity.

ROUNDING out the top ten PHS cagers are Fred Lussow, Keith Grams and Fred Empkie. This trio of hardwood candidates has turned in some impressive workouts.

Prospect opens its campaign Sept. 27 with a home affair against St. Charles, then hosts Glenbrook in the Interim opener Dec. 4.

AHS Boosters Honor Fall Award Winners

Arlinton high school's Booster club honored the athletes in fall sports at a banquet Tuesday evening in the school cafeteria.

Individual award winners for the fall sports were announced.

The complete list of fall sports winners at Arlington high will be published in next week's early edition of the paper, scheduled to come out Tuesday because of the holiday.

Defending State Champs

Promising Outlook For AHS Gymnastics

"Barring injuries, sickness, or prima donnas, I can't help but feel that this should be a good season."

That's the way Coach Gay Hughes looks at the forthcoming varsity gymnastics season at Arlington high.

And Hughes has every reason to feel optimistic over the 1959-60 outlook.

Eight lettermen are back for the defending state champion gymnasts, including two individual state champs and four other boys who scored in the state test at York high.

IN ADDITION, several non-letterwinners will bolster the squad with two sophomores given strong chances to crack the varsity roster.

The two returning state champs in their specialties are Tom Geocaris on the rings and Arnie Harvey on the parallel bars. Geocaris is one of the squad's top all-around boys, operating on the horizontal bar, parallel bars, side horse, rings and long horse.

Harvey's specialty is the parallel bars although he is another all-around performer.

OTHER returning monogram winners are Mike Nelson, Don Ballou, Dick Wetzel, Bill Sayre, Bill Flood, and Dick Anderson.

Nelson's specialty is on the rings although he will probably be working on the parallel bars too. Ballou is an all-around boy with Wetzel specializing on the side horse.

Nelson was second in the state on rings and Ballou finished eighth in the all-around. Wetzel was second on the side horse with Sayre fifth in tumbling. Sayre will also be working on the trampoline this year.

Flood is operating on the tramp with Anderson working as a tumbler and on the side horse.

SENIORS Bruce McCullum and Bob Russell and juniors Ron East, Larry Brousseau, and Gary Erwin are also ready to step in for key varsity roles.

Erwin is No. 1 on the trampoline and is regarded by Hughes as one of his top state prospects.

Sophs Lack Size, Speed, Experience!

Optimism is lacking in Prospect high school's frosh-soph basketball camp.

Coach Ted Wissen is faced with three major drawbacks —lack of size, lack of speed, and lack of experience!

The split in schools sent several of the top frosh cagers to Arlington and the plebe standout in 1958-59, Tommy Thomas, is now working out with the Prospect varsity.

This leaves Wissen with Mike Francek and Jim Anderson, both 5-11 sophs, as his most experienced cagers. Four frosh have been brought up to the soph quintet although one, Dennis Mitchell, is currently sidelined with a broken arm.

Other first year men on the frosh-soph outfit are Jim Hogarty, George Geiser, and Dan Johnson.

Seniors Dominate Cardinals' Squad

by BOB FRISK

There will be an unveiling in Arlington high school's gymnasium Friday evening.

Frank Bohac's Arlington cagers will go on display for the first time in the 1959-60 campaign.

Joining the festivities, but determined to put a damper on things, will be Evanston's highly-regarded Wildkits.

Both clubs will go into Friday's battle with the intent of getting off to a good start this season. Both rank as definite contenders for their respective conference titles.

Arlington will be carrying the prestige of the West Suburban conference with Evanston attempting to uphold the Suburban league name. The Wildkits bumped the Cards in last season's opener, 42-38.

The varsity encounter Friday will be preceded by the frosh-soph tilt at 7 p. m. Ken Schaller, who guided the Arlington sophs to a 15-3 mark in 1958-59, is again in charge of the younger Cards.

BOHAC HAS listed three definite starters for Friday's varsity battle with seniors dominating the varsity squad. Only two juniors are listed among the top 15 cagers.

Letterman Bob Inman, a 6-4½ senior, will open at one forward with Rick Johnston, 6-2 senior, at the other forward. An All-WSC guard last year, George Bork will handle one back-court berth.

Either Dan Striegel or Dick Passmore, both 6-4 seniors, will get the nod at center with letterman Gene Dahlquist or 6-1 Carl Massa at the guard slot opposite Bork.

STRIEGEL AND Mike Dundy were on the Arlington sophomore squad but by-passed the cage sport as juniors. Both boys are expected to be valuable additions to the Cards this winter, but their lack of junior experience is still handicapping their play at the present time.

Bork and Inman are the most experienced varsity performers although Dahlquist and Johnston broke in at the latter stage of the campaign last year and turned in impressive performances. Johnston had an outstanding regional effort, and Bohac hopes he can pick up from there.

Passmore and Massa were JV performers last winter, but both boys have been impressive in pre-season workouts.

ARLINGTON has one transfer on the varsity, 5-10 Gary Wade. Wade, a guard prospect, matriculated to AHS from Wisconsin and is a good outside shot.

Evanston's Jack Burmaster has four returning lettermen to work with, including two big boys in 6-9 Rich Rochelle and 6-7 Bill Little. Richelle, who netted 13 points in Evanston's victory over Arlington last November, isn't a smooth center but his height makes him dangerous.

Burmaster has a boy out for the first time in Jim Morby and this 6-5 performer may start Friday. In addition, the veteran Wildkits' coach has brought up a soph, 5-9 Dick Kuehne, and he may also start tomorrow night.

ROCHELLE and Fred Gablenz, 6-2 guard, were both starters in 1958-59.

The Wildkits have good height but lack team speed. Burmaster, however, expects them to be a Suburban league contender. Evanston won 15 of 20 last year and was 10-4 in the loop.

Boys who scored 24 of the 80 points in the game between Evanston and Arlington last season are back for Friday's test. However, the Cards have only one point returning in Bork. Seniors scored 37 of Arlington's 38 points in the loss to the Wildkits with Bork's free throw the lone tally by an underclassman.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

Ellis Has Same Mat Problem

COACH JOHN ELLIS has the same wrestling problems at Palatine as he had last year. There are too many good boys at the same weights and at other weights he lacks strong competitors. Last year at this time we pointed out that Chuck Conley, Andy Oltyan, and frosh star Brad McCreery, were all good enough to be varsity regulars but that all were at the same weight, 112 pounds. By the end of the season with intense competition for the first team spot Conley moved down to 103 for the tournaments and McCreery wrestled at 112. Conley went to the state semi-finals. This year Conley is captain of the team and will wrestle at 112 while McCreery is at 120. Again Oltyan finds himself competing with two of the best wrestlers on the team.

The same situation as last year is coming up at 103 where Johnny Anderson, Pete Nortin and Ed Rogan, all good boys, will be wrestling. Add to this Jim Nordin, an outstanding freshman, who will wrestle at 103 and may beat out the others. If some of these boys could qualify at 95 pounds it would help a lot but Ellis may have to depend on freshmen for that spot. Last year Palatine won 12 lost 2 and had one tie with Waukegan. Boys up from the soph team which lost only once will help but all the heavier weights will be uncertain. Last year Palatine had to pick up enough points by the time matches got up to 145 to have a 2-1 margin in order to finish in front as the weakness at the heavier weights, except Lloyd Roberts at 175, really took their toll. If Ellis can find good boys at the three heaviest weights, Palatine will be stronger than a year ago. There is nothing like tough competition to develop a good wrestling team. Palatine's material is plentiful and the eliminations in the squad each week will be tough. On top of this, Ellis has scheduled the toughest lineup of meets the Pirates have ever faced. We are going to look forward to watching and writing about the group of boys Ellis will coach this year and next. We predict here and now that they are going places and that a lot of medals and trophies will be added by the spring of 1961.

Basketball Prospects Hopeful

WHILE WRESTLING continues to look very strong at Palatine, basketball prospects will be more hopeful. There is only one direction to go in basketball and that is up. Last year the Pirates won the opener from Wauconda and lost the rest. They played best against the good teams and almost defeated some of them. They folded against those whom they might have beaten. The best basketball material in the school is in the junior and sophomore classes, not the senior class. Lower class boys may push many seniors completely out of the picture this year unless they show considerably more than they did last season. The present junior group lost only one or two games playing for Dick Kolze as freshmen two years ago. Last year as sophs they had a mediocre season. The present sophs have three outstanding boys from last year's frosh team. One or two of them may land on the varsity before the season is over unless the older boys show a lot more than they have the past two seasons. It will be interesting to see who finally makes the team. Coach Kolze will have a rough time figuring out who to use and until the Christmas holidays there will no doubt be plenty of experimenting as Kolze is the type of coach who believes in giving every boy a good chance to prove himself.

Illini To Win for Ray Eliot

IT IS HARD FOR A TEAM to be primed to the limit two weeks in a row. Both Wisconsin and Northwestern were up for their so-called title match. Both were down a bit as they were upset last week by very good teams. Now this week, Northwestern must beat an Illini team which is playing its last game for coach Ray Eliot. The Wildcats will really have to be up to win this one down at Illinois. Even if they do and tie Wisconsin for the title, the Badgers will probably be picked to go to the Rose Bowl because they hold a win over their co-champs. However, we think that Northwestern will lose at Illinois and Wisconsin will beat Minnesota to take it all. This will be the first time that a Big Ten champ has lost 2 games.

Dick Wisner, one of Palatine's best backs of all time, is on the varsity squad as a soph at Yale and what is more noteworthy, made the dean's list for outstanding scholarship in a report just received by Palatine High.

Schaller To Start Two Frosh

Two freshmen have been given the nod by Coach Ken Schaller as starters in Arlington's initial frosh-soph basketball game Friday evening with Evanston.

Guards Gary Brodnan and Chuck Close will start for the Cards' frosh-sophs, joining three sophomores in the opening allignment.

In addition to Brodnan and Close, Bob Laughlin, Ross Retterer, and Vince Furlong are expected to open Friday night.

SCHALLER IS faced with a lack of height and team speed, but he has been impressed by the hustle and overall shooting ability displayed in the opening workouts.

Retterer and Furlong are the tallest Cards among the starters, both listed at 6-0. However, 6-1 John Burgermeister, 6-5 Phil O'Connell, a frosh, and 6-3 Darwin Blix are all expected to see action. Don Kolstad, a 6-0 forward, is also slated to see duty Friday.

John Lane, a 6-1 soph, will fit into the young Cards' lineup when he fully recovers from a knee injury incurred in football.

In 1958-59 Arlington's sophs were 15-3 for the season and second in the West Suburban conference.

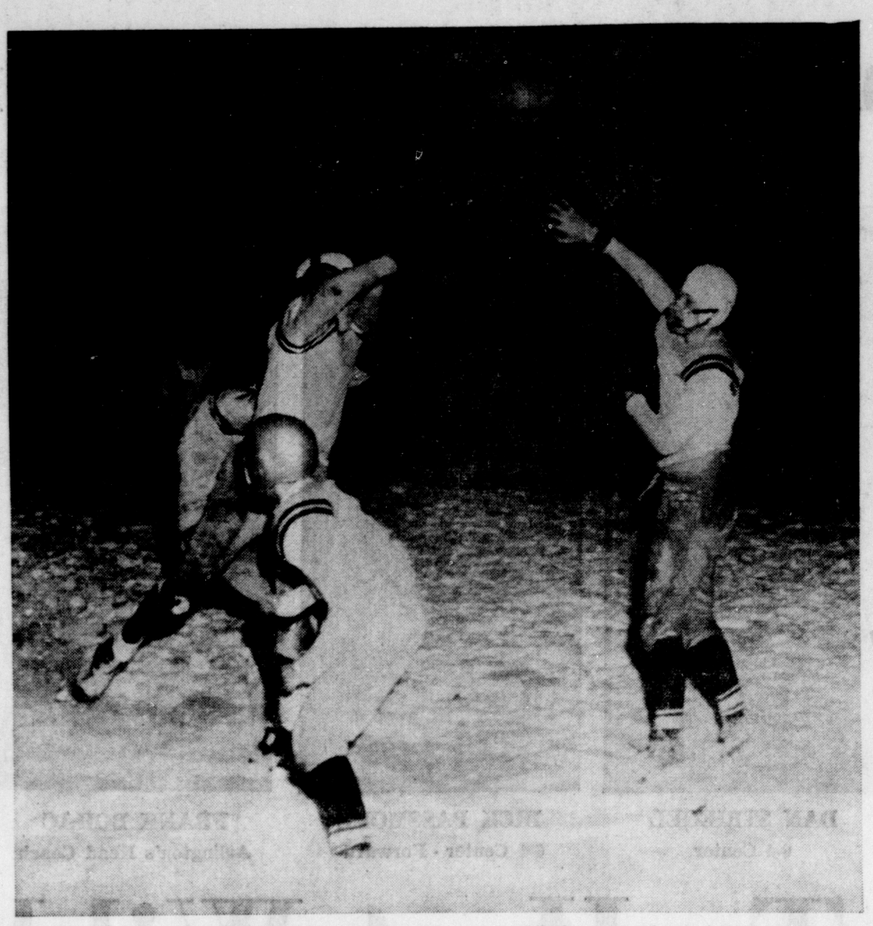
NW Ski Club Meets Tonight At The Pines

The Northwest Chicago ski club is havig a special meeting Thursday, Nov. 19, at "The Pines," 9114 Waukegan rd., Morton Grove. Meeting starts promptly at 8 p.m.

The guest speaker will be James Johnson owner of Tack-L-Tyers in Evanston. Johnson is a certified ski instructor and opened one of the first ski shops in Chicago. He has been skiing for over 20 years and during the war taught the ski troops in Ludlow, Col.

He will talk about getting the proper skiing equipment and will also give us some pointers on skiing. This talk will be particularly good for the beginners and will certainly be very helpful to the more advanced skiers.

For further information call VA 4-1764 during the day or evening.



A FIELD COVERED with snow and temperatures hovering in the 20's didn't keep these Arlington midget footballers from putting on an impressive show last Friday evening on the high school field. Here an unidentified quarterback attempts a pass in the senior game won by the northside, 18-0. Two all-star tilts were played in the evening sponsored by the Arlington Elks. (Burnes Photo

Juniors in 0-0 Tie; Northside Seniors Triumph

Playing under adverse conditions, the second annual Elks midget football all-star games were played last Friday evening at the Arlington high school field.

On a field covered with six inches of snow, the juniors battled to a 0-0 tie. A strong northside defense did not allow the south a first down, but whenever they were called upon, the southsiders stopped every northside approach to their goal line.

The entire game was played in southside territory as the northside, coached by Bill Hotze, tried again and again to cross their opponent's goal.

THE NORTHSIDE seniors took over the game from the kickoff and the southsiders found it difficult to contain the powerful running of the big, fast northside line as the latter won, 18-0.

Mke Fitzpatrick played a tremendous game before receiving a leg injury in the first half. Osterman made a beautiful 50 yard run to the goal line in the first half only to have the play called back on a penalty.

Joe Mueller of the northside scored the first two TD's on 15 and eight yard runs. The final TD was scored by Osterman on a slashing 45 yard run. Joe Huske was the coach for the northside and Merv Fink for the southside.

The wind up of the Arlington Heights Midget Football League season will be featured by a banquet at the AH high school cafeteria this evening. The whole family is invited to enjoy a fine evening of good food and wonderful entertainment.

Club Gains ASA Voting Privileges

The Mount Prospect speed skating Club is a full-fledged voting member of the Amateur Skating association of Illinois.

By fulfilling its obligation as a probationary club during the last racing season, the Mt. Prospect Club's application to be removed from probationary status in 1959-60 received the unanimous support of the ASA voting membership.

The next important business meeting of the Mt. Prospect club is scheduled for Monday night, Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m., at the Lions Park fieldhouse. Parents and skaters are urged to attend. Plans for the coming season's training activities will be discussed and a tentative schedule of sanctioned ASA skating events will be announced.

An Olympic fund speed skating event being held at Michael Kirby's Arena at 74th and Loomis in Chicago opens the 1959-60 season. It is an indoor meet; which, from a spectators view point, is the most exciting type of speed skating competition. All proceeds from the $1 admission charge will be used to defray the expenses of the U. S. Olympic Speed Skating Team at Squaw Valley, Cal., this coming winter.

PHS Needs Strength At Middle Weights

A shortage of boys at the middle weights—145, 154, 165, and 180, is a major problem confronting Dick Mudge as he prepares the Prospect high school varsity wrestling unit for its December 4 opener.

"We're usually starving at the lower weights," Mudge pointed out, 'but it's a different situation this year. We definitely need more boys in those middle weight classes."

Mudge picked up three mat lettermen from the Arlington varsity of 1958-59 in the split of the schools. Returning are Darryl Phillips, a junior heavyweight who was district and sectional champ as a soph; Bob Trausch, 95-pounder last year; and Joe Ortiz, who worked in the 103 class as a soph.

SEVENTY BOYS are out for the three Prospect teams with the squads working on take-downs, fundamentals, and conditioning in the initial drills.

Hal Henson is working with the frosh-soph unit with the fate of his squad depending a lot on inexperienced wrestlers.

The heavyweight class will be Prospect's strongest division with the presence of Phillips and 225-pound Jim Minikel. As Mudge puts it, "It's too bad they're both at the same school."

PHILLIPS was the only undefeated heavyweight in the West Suburban conference last year, but Minikel has shown well in the early workouts.

Freshmen will probably fill the 95 pound slot on the varsity with the three Krause boys—Tom, Dick and Harry—operating at 103.

JUNIOR Mike Hogarty, expected to be the Knights' top boy at 165, broke his collar bone the third night of practice and will definitely be lost prior to the Christmas holiday break. Soph Pete Siech is currently handling the 165-pound slot.

Jim Peters, another second year performer, is the top competitor at 180.

Four Regulars In UI Finale

Twelve University of Illinois football players will conclude their careers when the Illini face Northwestern in Memorial Stadium Saturday.

Coach Ray Eliot loses four regulars—all linemen 8 from the 1959 squad, headed by Capt. Bill Burrell, All-American guard candidate. Other starters who have completed eligibility: center Dave Ash, Alton; guard John Gremer, Bloomington (Trinity); and end Gerald Patrick, Canton, Ohio (McKinley).

Other squad members who will dress for their final collegiate game include: Bruce Beckmann, St. Louis, Mo. (Mercy) end; Dejustice Coleman, Forrest City, Ark. (Lincoln) halfback; Bob Hickey, Chicago (Lindblom) end; Bob Lanzotti, Taylorville fullback; Curtis Plautz, Prophetstown center; Bob Salata, Waukegan fullback; Doug Wallace, Elgin halfback; and Don Yeazel, Dayton, Ohio (Roosevelt) tackle.

Wrestling Twins

Former Michigan State wrestling twins, Burl and Merle Jennings, each of whom won NCAA mat titles in 1941 and 1942, are the only wrestling twins in collegiate history to win pairs of national championships.

PHS Gymnastics Unpredictable!

The gymnastics situation at Prospect high appears to be as unpredictable as the weather.

Varsity head Rick Farris just doesn't know what the season ahead holds until the squad has been tested in actual competition.

Farris coached an unbeaten frosh-soph gymnastics team last year, but several of his top boys matriculated to Arlington in the split of schools with Gary Erwin, Bill Sayre, and Dick Wetzel the major losses.

ONE LETTERMAN, Tom Acker, is on the Prospect varsity. Acker, a junior, finished seventh in the state on the parallel bars in his first year of competition.

Another current PHS varsity gymnast who went downstate is Dave Price. Price, a junior, competed in the state test at York on the horizontal bar but failed to place.

Juniors Dan Malloy and Warren Bischoff are the Knights' top boys on the rings with Jim Gardner heading the tramp specialists. Soph Ron Kelly, who has never competed before, heads an inexperienced side horse field.

TWO JUNIORS, Jim Oldham and Art Virta, and soph Ray Strobel are the top tumblers with four boys in the all-around class, juniors Jeff Fahrner, Dave Price, and George Allen and soph Dan Simonsen.

Prospect opens December 11 with Proviso West. As Farris sums it up, "We'll just have to wait and see. I don't know how we will stack up this winter."

New Coach Handles AHS Varsity Wrestling Squad

A new coach with a new style is faced with an old problem—a shortage of lettermen.

Bob Emmons is in his first year as head of Arlington's varsity wrestling team, but he doesn't have any lettermen on the mat squad.

The three monogram winners returning from the 1958-59 Arlington varsity are at Prospect after the split in schools.

IN ADDITION, Emmons is introducing a new style into the AHS wrestling setup and consequently it may take some time before the boys become completely familiar with the change.

"But I will say I'm pleased with the desire of the squad," he pointed out. "I've had a lot of cooperation in the first two weeks of practice."

Back in coaching after an absence of 16 years, Emmons has been stressing fundamentals and conditioning in the early workouts. "It appears we'll be the weakest at the lower weights with experiece definitely lacking there."

SENIORS appear to be the best boys at most of the slots. George Shartle is a possible competitior at 120 with Tom Clark at 127. Others include Dale Hedberg (133), Dick Parsons (138), Terry Harris (154), Denny Schneck (180), and Bob Hacker (heavyweight).

Two juniors who are battling for the 165-pound slot are Rich Edelblute and Garner Simmons.

Julius Fliehler's frosh-soph squad is faced with that old nemesis — inexperience. It's still too early in the campaign to list the top boys in the various weight divisions.

Arlington's wrestlers open the season Dec. 5 against Glenbrook.

NW Lutheran Tourney Slated

The Northwest Lutheran bowling association is now accepting entry blanks for its 32nd Annual Tournament to be held on Saturday and Sunday at River-Rand Bowl, Des Plaines, starting January 30, 1960 and ending March 20, 1960.

This is one of the largest tournaments of its kind held in the Chicago area. It is restricted to members of the Evangelical Lutheran Synodical Conference and attracts bowlers from Danville to Rockford and from Aurora to Waukegan.

Auspicious Debut

Michigan State's Dean Look, who switched from halfback to quarterback this year, was named Associated Press "Back of the Week" the first game he ever started at the new position.

Net Sports To Headline Dec. 5 Show

Three types of net sports will combine to form the major part of a huge show at Chicago Stadium Saturday night, Dec. 5, when basketball's celebrated Harlem Globetrotters headline the fancy proceedings.

And Owner-Coach Saperstein of the Trotters, who assembled the package, is sure the net result will be plenty of action for the fans and a good net at the gate.

His own razzle dazzle netmen, now in their thirty-third successive season of record-breaking exploits all over the world, will take on the San Francisco All-Nations, an outgrowth of last year's Hawaii 50th Staters who made two impressive Stadium showings.

Tops in another field of net endeavor will be the co-feature pairing tennis queens Althea Gibson and Karol Fageros in the first half of the bill at 8 p.m. Althea, third girl in history to win the Wimbledon and United States singles championships two years in succession in 1957 and 1958, and Karol of golden lame' panties fame, start their pro career as an added attraction with the Trotters next Tuesday at San Antonio, Texas.

Stars in another net field appearing on the Stadium show are the multi-titled international table tennis stars, Richard Bergmann of England and Norikazu ("Cannonball") Fujii of Japan, who will be presented in an exhibition match between halves of the Trotters-San Francisco tilt. Others slated at the same time are Kimi Yokoi, brilliant Japanese-American bicycle artist, and The Carmenas, dazzling thrill performers from Germany.

Notre Dame Dons Conclude Season With 6-2-1 Mark

by DAVE SCHLAVER

Notre Dame of Niles ended its third season of varsity competition last Saturday with a 6-2-1 record. Peoria Spalding beat the Dons in a close 7-0 contest in five-degree weather at Peoria.

The complete varsity squad and the marching band made the long trip to Peoria. This marked the final appearance in uniform for senior members of both organizations.

Paced by Bob Anderson, chosen "Prep Back of the Week" by The Chicago's American, and Phil Creden, versatile back, the Dons were able to repeat their successful record of last season. Teams which had two consecutive victories over the Dons were unable to beat them this season. Joliet Catholic lost to Notre Dame, 20-14, and North Chicago was only able to hold the Dons to a tie.

THREE straight shut-outs put the Dons in a winning spirit after a surprising 13-7 loss to Immaculate Conception of Elmhurst. St. Thomas of Rockford, Assumption of Davenport, Iowa, and Fenton of Bensenville fell in that order.

Graduating seniors and their coach for three years, Joe Yonto, are proud of their unbeaten record at home over two years of competition in the Notre Dame stadium.

Next year Notre Dame will join the Catholic Suburban conference for football competition. This conference has already been in existence for baseball and starts this season for basketball. The Dons will have many regulars returning, including fleet halfback Pat Solon of Arlington Heights, quarterback Jim Salzman, and linemen Larry Pakyz of Arlington, Glenn Wojcik, Ernie Tolli, and Dudley Auer.

(why Volkswagen's aluminum engine is still years ahead of its time)

Dead weight in an engine is the enemy of efficiency. That's why airplane engines are made of aluminum. And that's why Volkswagen's engine is ingeniously cast of aluminum and magnesium alloys (even lighter than aluminum).

Volkswagen reduces dead weight in still other ways. The engine is air-cooled—there is no bulky radiator. (No water to freeze in winter, or to boil over in summer.) And placing the engine in the back gets rid of the conventional heavy drive shaft while giving direct power to the rear wheels. (In mud, sand, ice, snow, where other cars skid, you go.)

As a result, the Volkswagen engine weighs only 198 lbs. and every pound works. You get an honest 32 miles to the gallon (regular gas, regular driving) and will probably never need oil between changes. And the engine is so efficient, top and cruising speeds are the same. You can go 70 mph without strain, all day long.

These are some of the reasons a used VW is worth almost as much as a new one. We'll be pleased to show you all the others. Come in this week and drive one.

Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Among Top 10 Home Builders

Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village were among the top 10 in the Metropolitan area in home building for the first 10 months of 1959.

In Arlington 497 homes, totalling $9,642,920, were built. Average cost per home is $19,402. Elk Grove village was higher than Arlington with 566 new homes. Total cost was lower, however, at $8,249,250 and average cost per home of $14,575.

The November survey of new building shows that new construction in the metropolitan area has dropped to a 10-year low. And in only two towns of the northwest suburban area is an increase shown for October, 1959 over the same month last year.

Building increases are seen in Elk Grove village and Wood Dale.

Of $95,001,725 total metropolitan area construction, area building equaled $4,089,046 or 4 per cent of the October total.

In October, 1958, total building in the northwest suburbs totaled $6,008,890 or $1,919,844 more than this year.

In the area 280 homes were built during October, 1958. During the same month this year 97 were built. The only increase—from one to four—was in Wood Dale.

Last month 33 apartments were built in Arlington Heights, 14 in Bensenville, and eight in Palatine.

One explanation for last month's building lag was given Monday by Palatine building commissioner, Richard Decker.

He said during prosperity money became tighter and people are unwilling to pay high mortgage interest rates.

"You always see a building boom during a recession, paradoxical as it may seem, because money is freer—banks have more money available for mortgage and loan purposes," he said. (BB

Tollway Speed Limit To Go Up to 65 m.p.h.

Passenger car speed limits on the Tri-State Tollway around Chicago from Indiana to Wisconsin will be raised to 65 miles per hour in the near future.

This was announced Friday by Charles M. Burgess, chairman of the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission, who said that the commission will approve the increased speed limits at a meeting here today.

Burgess said that today's action will bring the 60 mile-per-hour limit on the Tri-State Tollway in Cook county in line with the 65-mph limit now in effect on the Lake county portion and on state highways.

The change will be effective as soon as posted speed limit signs on the 83-mile Tri-State Tollway can be changed.

Charles L. Dearing, executive director of the commission, said that the commission has moved slowly on raising speed limits until it was assured that proposed increases would not adversely affect the safety record established on the tollway.

"Extensive engineering and traffic surveys have been made on the Tri-State Tollway under varying traffic conditions," he said. "The increase in speed limits is recommended by the Commission's engineering department, the consulting engineer, and by the Tollway Patrol."

Today's action brings 135 miles of the Illinois Tollway's 187 miles to a 65 mph speed limit for passenger cars. The remaining 52 miles on the Northwest Tollway between Elgin and South Beloit have a maximum speed limit of 70 miles per hour. A minimum speed limit of 40 miles per hour is in effect for all vehicles on the entire tollway.

St. Paul Federal says...
"We're building for your youngsters too!"

Building Report No. 2 to shareholders and friends

Our liking for youngsters goes back to the very earliest St. Paul days. So naturally we've included the little folks in our plans for the big St. Paul addition now under construction.

Small-size teller window

Your child will have his or her "own" window for saving in our expanded lobby. It will be scaled down to size, permitting a youngster to transact business just like the grown-ups. We feel this will not only encourage your children to save, but also give them a personal purpose for accompanying parents on trips to St. Paul.

Supervised children's area

Imagine how nice it will be to have your small youngsters looked after while you attend to savings business at St. Paul. We'll have a supervised play area in our expanded quarters, a place where you may put a youngster and attend to your business with a carefree mind. There'll be ample books, toys and entertainment. Fact is, we are going to try and make it so attractive to youngsters that they'll beg you to visit St. Paul.

Drive-in service helps

Mothers with small babies will find our drive-in service handy, especially in bad weather. Our three drive-in windows will be completely under roof for easy and pleasant saving even during rain or snow. No need to bundle up the baby or risk a fall.

Yes, we're planning in a big way for you and your youngsters. More convenient features of our expanded headquarters will be discussed in our next report. Watch for it in your local newspaper.

It's your building . . . watch it grow!

Chicagoans Have Safer Automobiles

Chicagoans are driving safer automobiles than motorists in other parts of the country, according to W. J. Gerwe, executive vice president of Bulk Petroleum corporation.

His conclusion is based on the tabulations of a two-week city-wide motor vehicle safety check program during which attendants at the 36 Bulko service stations checked the rear lights, front lights and windshield wipers of 92,586 automobiles.

COMPARISON of the Bulko statistics with those of a recent national survey show that while rear lights were found most often to be in need of service and maintenance, the incidence of such failure was 2.5 per cent less in Chicago than elsewhere in the country.

"The same holds true with front lights and windshield wipers," Gerwe said. "Our figures show that 15.6 per cent of the automobiles checked failed to pass front light inspection. This compares to the 18. 8 per cent national average."

Tabulations also show that only 3.9 per cent of the Chicago - owned automobiles checked had defective windshield wipers. The national average is 4.7 per cent. (BB

Plan Family Party At New Warehouse

A huge "family party" is being planned by Leonard Wineburgh, manager of Shopper's Warehouse, Des Plaines' newest discount shopping center located at 1500 Rand Road, at the intersection of Rand and River Roads.

Shopper's Warehouse's "family party" will be a gala ten-day event beginning today, Thursday, when the store opens its doors for the first time.

In addition to the many giant savings available to shoppers during the grand opening period, Wineburgh said that there would be numerous prizes, gifts and souvenirs available for every member of the family—from six to sixty.

First prize during Shopper's Warehouse's grand opening celebration will be a weekend at the famous Wagon Wheel Motel in Rockton, Ill. In addition to a wonderful three-day holiday, complete with wintertime swimming and sun-bathing, arrangements have been made for a champagne dinner for two on the first night.

Additional prizes, including $25 and $15 merchandise certificates will be given to lucky number winners who register at Shopper's Warehouse during the ten days of the store's grand opening celebration.

For the teen-agers, more than 1000 popular records will be given away free while they last.

And for the younger set, there will be free candy. Over 5000 safety pop suckers will be given away to the preschool children. More than 5000 red, yellow, green and blue balloons will be given away to the thousands of youngsters expected by Shopper's Warehouse who accompany their parents during the gala grand opening.

And, to see that every child gets his or her gift, there will be a special Shopper's Warehouse clown on hand the first weekend the store is open to distribute all the suckers, candy and balloons.

Along the Camp Fire Trail

by Dorothy Schomburg — CLearbrook 3-7017

Donut Day

Camp Fire Girls clad in colorful red, white and blue costumes sold glazed donuts in many buildings and railway stations throughout the loop and in many suburban areas November 11. The occasion was the annual Donut Day of the Chicago Area Council of Camp Fire Girls.

Proceeds from the sale go toward the support of the Camp Fire Girls program, which serves more than 10,000 Chicago area girls between the ages of 7 and 17. Nearly 1,000 Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds from Palatine, Mt. Prospect, and Arlington Heights took on the duties of junior saleswomen to help the council meet their current budget. Mt. Prospect members took advance orders for the attractively-packaged yeast raised donuts, delivering them on the day of sale. While Arlington Heights Camp Fire Girls journeyed to the loop to sell their wares at the Northwestern depot, Palatine Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls were seen about the village with the newly-designed blue and white boxes inscribed with the Camp Fire Girls insignia. Council leaders, parents and interested adults accompanied the girls in their rounds of downtown office buildings, railroad stations, and neighborhood areas.

For their last meeting in October, the Four O'Clock Blue Birds, Mrs. Walter Cutler and Mrs. Edmund Marzec, leaders, joined with another Pleasant Hills group, led by Mrs. Gorden Hurt and Mrs. William Steigerwaldt, and visited the Aux Plaines River Trails Nature Center. The trip was enjoyed by all and the groups would like to thank the mothers who accompanied them.

The Friendly Blue Birds, Mrs. Hans Martin, Leader, were honored to be invited by the Palanois Park Garden club to enter their flower show held November 7 and 8 in Paddock school. The eight Blue Birds carved pumpkins and entered them in the show. Darlene Martin received a second prize, Jody Calahan, third prize, and the rest of the girls received honorable mention.

Mrs. Robert Luebbe and Mrs. William Brandstatt's Blue Jay Blue Birds spent their last meeting writing thank you notes to the Palatine Pet shop for the enjoyable visit they had October 30.

MRS. C. E. Daughterty's Camp Fire group made puppets and presented the play, "Sleeping Beauty." They also made plans to make octopi from yarn for children in hospitals.

Pasipika Camp Fire Girls, under the guardianship of Mrs. John Normandt and Mrs. Edmond Papenbrok, made plans at their last meeting for a group hike to Deer Grove November 14. The 22 girls were pleasantly surprised with the newly-fallen snow, and enjoyed the wintry hike marked with many interesting facets of Mother Nature's gem-like panorama. Discussion of program plans for the remainder of the year took place during their trail luncheon.

At the leader's association meeting, held November 9 at St. Paul church, plans were begun for next year's day camp program to take place in July or August. Mrs. Robert Luebbe, district day camp chairman, has been in attendance at council day camp planning sessions and will give timely reports at future leaders meetings.

Mrs. M. Verba and Mrs. James Zadny have been named co-chairmen for the annual father-daughter banquet to be held in March. Further information will be forthcoming.

A special Blue Bird leaders meeting has been called at the home of Mrs. Zadny November 24 at 9:30 a.m. for the purpose of discussing Blue Bird programming for the year.

Arlinton Heights

Bonnie Blues Blue Birds were guests in the home of Mrs. Frank DeRosa for a Halloween party October 30. Hi-light of the afternoon was acting out what their costumes represented. The 13 fourth grade girls from Westgate school played games and sang songs before enjoying Halloween refreshments. Cohostess was Mrs. H. W. McDaniels.

Kiyatonga Camp Fire Girls met November 2 at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Bob Southard. A ceremonial was held for five girls who had passed their Trail Seeker rank. A fall theme was carried out with one large pumpkin holding the theme candle and five small candles in pumpkins with ribbon streamers attached to fall leaves bearing the name of each new Trail Seeker and the date of the council fire.

Kiyatongas receiving rank were Kathy Cunningham, Nancy Rollefson, Susan Rollefson, Susan Schanmier, and Elaine Stephenson. Lighting the individual candles, each girl spoke of the work and joy in attaining the first rank.

THE NOVEMBER 4 council fire of the Okiciyapi Camp Fire Girls brought 18 new Trail Seekers into the Camp Fire circle. Using a harvest theme, the Wohelo tapers in tiny pumpkins were placed among a field of colorful corn stalks, each stalk bearing the name and craft honor beads being awarded to the 20 girls in the group.

Recipients of the Trail Seeker certificate, charm and five purple beads of rank were: Christine Baldassari, Lynn Carter, Nancy Chlupsa, Linda Crittenden, Linda Genevich, Joy Hruska, Rose Marie Kelly, Linda Lorenz, Kathy Lynch, Bonnie Marks, Candy and Sandy Ormsbee, Jo Ellen Ottengheime, Shirley Owen, Nancy Roth, Paula Schomburg, Diane Sharp, and Carol Voelker. Mrs. Robert R. Roth, guardian, conducted the group's initial ceremonial.

Blue Butterflies Blue Bird group enjoyed a tour of Sylvia's Flowers November 10. Eleven third and fourth grade girls from Our Lady of the Wayside attended the after-school trip and were presented with individual mum bouquets upon completion of the tour. Mrs. James Dolan and Mrs. Joseph Mueller, co-leaders of the group, accompanied the girls.

KIYATONGA and Okiciyapi Camp Fire Girls took the train to the loop November 11 to join with Chicago area Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls in selling donuts during the Chicago Area Council's annual Donut Day. Before taking up their selling duties in the Northwestern depot, the girls attended Don McNeill's Breakfast Club in the Sherman. A large part of the hour-long show was devoted to the Arlington Heights Camp Fire Girls with many of the girls and the leaders being interviewed by Mr. McNeill.

Since the show takes place the day before it is broadcast on a coast-to-coast hookup, the girls were able to hear themselves on Thursday, when the taped program was heard on the ABC network. Lynn Carter and Alana Southard presented Don McNeill and Sam Cowling, each, with a box of Camp Fire donuts.

Requesting the girls' autographs, Don later presented Mrs. Roth with the Parker "61" pen the girls had used and asked that the leaders select a way to award it to one of the 34 girls attending the program. The two groups now face the pleasant task of finding an owner for the fabulous gift. Accompanying the girls on the trip were Mrs. James Colmer, Mrs. Fredric Marks, Mrs. E. Elliott Ormsbee, Mrs. George E. Owen, Mrs. Robert R. Roth, Mrs. Louis M. Schomburg, Mrs. Bob Southard and Mrs. Charles Stephenson.

Semi-Annual Fire Safety Inspection for Schools

George T. Wilkins, state superintendent of public instruction, this week announced approval of a plan requiring semi-annual fire safety inspection and an annual inventory of all public school buildings in Illinois.

Based on fire safety checklist questionnaires to be completed by the local superintendent and the building custodian, the system is the first of its kind prepared in the history of Wilkins' office.

The plan has been devised by the Illinois Building Industry Alliance, a statewide organization representing various segments of the building industry, in cooperation with a committee named by Wilkins.

IT HAS ALSO been reviewed by representatives of the 102 county school superintendents.

Wilkins said the new procedure is mandatory for custodians and superintendents of more than 5,000 public school buildings in Illinois, and "stresses the importance of good housekeeping and fire prevention as primary factors in the prevention of fires in our public schools."

Officials of parochial schools in Illinois will be invited to participate in the program on a voluntary basis since Wilkins' office does not exercise direct control over such private institutions.

Semi-annual inspections shall be completed within the first ten days of the months of October and February, while the "annual inventory" shall be during the first ten days of the month of October.

In a joint statement the state schools chief and Charles F. Behrensmeyer, of Quincy, IBIA president and vice president of the Architects Association of Illinois, said the plan seeks to avert recurrence of any tragic school fires in Illinois.

THE questionnaires contain detailed check-lists covering key features of school safety, such as fire escapes, exit doors, heating equipment, electrical wiring and lighting, gas and water supply, accumulation of rubbish and storage of inflammable material, fire extinguishers, fire alarm systems and fire drills, Wilkins reported the checklists were suggested by Robert Hayes, assistant in the office of Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, and other school administrators.

Wilkins praised IBIA officials and members of the cooperating committee for "developing a common sense, uniform and realistic plan.

"We agree that primary emphasis should be placed on 'child safety' rather than 'building safety.'

"Saving children," he added "means the ability to evacuate them quickly and safely in case of fire.

"Even in this day of crowded classrooms, buildings are less important than lives.

"Schools are replaceable, school children are not."

WILKINS SAID the committee has also been drafting the first over-all specifications for minimum requirements of school buildings with the advice of the state department of public health, the supervising architect and state fire marshal.

Wilkins said the schedule "for the first time will spell out a neglected provision of the state school code which requires this office to prepare the same for school boards."

The building specifications deal with "heating, ventilating, lighting, eating, water supply, toilet and safety against fire which will conserve the health and safety of the pupils of the public schools."

Scott A. Funkhouser, school building consultant, is serving as Wilkins' staff representative on the committee.

In addition to IBIA, the committee includes representatives of the Illinois Association of School Boards, the Illinois State Association of School Administrators, county superintendents of Schools, and a representative of the Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago. (A13

Miss Margaret Godknecht is the new chief operator at the telephone exchange. To insure satisfactory service, patrons are requested to call by number only (if they need a directory, ask for one) and report all trouble and make complaints as early in the morning as possible to the chief operator only. If they do these things, it will be much easier for the company to furnish good service. The subscribers are also requested not to make late night calls, unless absolutely necessary. Mrs. H. The editor believes that every school house should be a community center. The first steps in that direction are the school social evenings that are being held frequently in Palatine's beautiful school house. The parties are a great thing and give to our school boys and girls just what they need, and which they can not get anywhere else. Now if the work could be broadened out to include some "stunts" for the parents, this school would in truth become a community center.

Merle Guild Post No. 208 American Legion and Arlington Heights Post No. 981 V.F.W., together with their Auxiliaries, conducted Armistice Day exercises at the Flag Park in Arlington Heights last Saturday. The line of march was through the downtown section of the Village to the Flag Park where the exercises were held. C. Leslie Griffith, Past Commander of Merle Guild Post, was in charge of the exercises as the Americanism chairman of the Merle Guild Post. After prayer by the Post Chaplain H. H. Baumann, roll call of World War dead by Miles Burpee, Adj., the V.F.W. Ceremony was read by Albert F. Adam in the absence of Rudolph J. Rizzi, Commander. The American Legion National Convention Neutrality Resolution was read by Elmer W. Crane, Commander of Merle Guild Post, after remarks appropriate to the occasion.

From the place of the exercises the assemblage repaired to the North side grade school where the Flag of our Country was presented to the school by Merle Guild Post, and from there to the South side school where the Auxiliary of Merle Guild Post presented the Flag of our Country to the school.

Over fifty friends and members of the local Garden Club attended the meeting of that organization Tuesday evening in the North school to hear Mr. Mohr of the Garfield Park Conservatory talk on "Flower Arrangements" and to see him demonstrate with chrysanthemums, roses, and sweet peas. Several members of the club brought flower arrangements, which Mr. Mohr talked about, giving helpful suggestions on various ways to use flowers and the proper utensils for different varieties. Mr. Mohr brought with him many flowers from the conservatory and Mr. Klehm furnished flowers for arrangements.

Formal presentation was made to the public schools of a large projector screen by the Garden Club at this meeting.

"With the hope that both present and future generations of adults and children of our town will fully enjoy the recreational facilities to be provided, on behalf of the Lions Club of Mt. Prospect I present to you, Lion Maurice B. Pendleton, as president of the board of trustees of the Village of Mt. Prospect, the deed to Lions Memorial Park." So saying, Sherman H. Canty, at the Lions dinner meeting Wednesday night, formally turned over to the village the sixteen and two thirds acres of land which the club has purchased with the proceeds of their annual fall festivals. Canty reviewed the unanimous decision of the club to provide Lions Memorial Park "in honor of those gallant sons and daughters of Mt. Prospect who have given their lives in the armed forces in defense of our country."

Following a report from Palatine that deer were seen, deer were reported last week in the vicinity of Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights. A. E. Vander, 1311 W. Oakton St., Arlington Heights, reported to the police that he saw a deer and a doe cross the Northwest Highway. A similar report from Palatine was received. L. B. Anderson denied that any of his animals had escaped.

TB Care Cost Is $20 Million Year

Cost to Illinois taxpayers for control of tuberculosis and care and treatment of its victims is $20,000,000 annually, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health.

The disease, although losing ground as a killer, continues to cause considerable sickness.

The total number of deaths attributed to tuberculosis in Illinois declined from 5,620 in 1922 to 762 in 1958. In 1958 the average age at death was 56 years, compared to an average of only 35 years in 1922.

THIS TREND was also evidenced in the recent State Fair chest X-ray program. All of the 31 tuberculosis suspects discovered among fairgoers who were X-rayed were 45 years of age or older.

During the first six months of 1959, 1,895 cases of active tuberculosis were reported in Illinois. By the end of July, 340 deaths from tuberculosis had been reported this year, as compared to 443 deaths in the same period 1958, a decrease of 23 per cent. (A13

This delightful musical will be presented in the early spring, and will give residents of this area who missed the original stage play a chance for a most enjoyable evening with the characters of "South Pacific." 1

To Sponsor Williams Concert

Roger Williams, piano star of radio, TV and recording fame, will perform at Evanston high school Saturday, Nov. 28, at 8:30 p.m. Entire proceeds from the concert will be used to purchase clothing for the Lake Bluff Children's home. The service league of the children's Home maintains the clothing budget which it reports has become a difficult task in recent years as the donations from the United Fund Drive has dropped and the cost of living has steadily risen.

MRS. HARRY Broadwell, Mrs. Herbert Cornelius, Mrs. Stephen Jurco and Mrs. Clarence Livingston are local women working on the concert.

Lake Bluff children may also be invited to the musical if there are any who would like to contribute to their evening at the concert. Mrs. Broadwell, CL. 3-2075, is chairman of the student's section for $3.50, and may be called by those wishing to sponsor children.

Tickets range from the "angel" class of $100 down to the student section for $3.50.

Film Censorship Board Explained

by JIM PHILLIPS

Whenever I am called upon to address a youth group or speak before a club on the subject of motion pictures, the same question invariably comes up: How does the censorship of movies come about? Instead of trying to explain the situation, I describe a typical censor board meeting; take this one, for instance:

The movie: "The Life and Times of Ludvig Von Beethoven." The censor board: Dr. Ivan Glotz, professor of motion picture arts at ? university; Mrs. Clara Yak, housewife, bridge player, social climber and free-lance dish washer; Sigfried Shell, chairman of the board at a leading bank, president of the town hall men's club and part-time television repairman; and Harold Smurd, youthful poet, jazz critic, modern writer, thinker, and unemployed. As the scene opens, we find the four grouped about the seminar table (the cards have been cleared away) discussing the film.

Dr. Glotz: Let us immediately cast votes as to whether this film should be shown publicly!

Mrs. Yak: I don't have to cast a vote! Didn't you hear the horrible profanity all through the movie?

Mr. Shell: That wasn't profanity. Those were musical terms. After all, it's about the life of Beethoven!

Smurd: Man—like who's this Beethoven cube?

Mr. Shell: My dear fellow, weren't you paying attention?

Smurd: Yeh—but I didn't dig the movie!

Dr. Glotz: In my opinion, the film should not be shown because of Mrs. Beethoven's low cut dress!

Mr. Shell: The dress wasn't low. Mrs. Beethoven was just tall!

Dr. Glotz: Well, I like short women!

Mrs. Yak: I think the entire film was distasteful! Children should not be allowed to see such bloody scenes.

Dr. Glotz: I don't remember any bloody scenes.

Mr. Shell: She means the part where Beethoven got his hand caught in the music stand.

Mrs. Yak: The least you can do is pay attention!

Dr. Glotz: See here, Mrs. Yak, I pay just as much attention to this job as you do! After all, who was it that helped ban "Gone With the Wind" because the air conditioner companies didn't like it!

Mrs. Yak: You're still an incompetent!

Smurd: Look, doll why don't you clam the choppers so the rest of the diggers can dig, eh?

Mrs. Yak: And you, Mr. Smurd, are a disgrace to this board. I don't think you know the difference between a good and bad film.

Smurd: I know, doll, I know! Like, I mean a good movie is one where the prices go higher!

Mrs. Yak: Oh, I give up! We are highly responsible to the public and I demand this movie be banned! Besides, I'm late for my hairdressing appointment! I vote no!

Mr. Shell: No what?

Dr. Glotz: She means she doesn't like Beethoven!

Mr. Shell: Either that or she can't stand low-cut dresses. I think we should accept the film because the technicolor is good.

Smurd: I still don't dig the music. It ain't got no beat, like I mean, no bongos, man!

Dr. Glotz: We seem to be divided in our opinions! I think we should adjourn and take a rest!

Mrs. Yak: I still won't stand for it! The idea! Those bloody scenes and low-cut dresses! I'm going straight to the Daughters of the American Motion Picture Arts — this board is corrupt and incompetent —

And so our censorship activity adjourns. But they'll be back for a final decision. And you can bet your life that your decision will be every bit as good as theirs. If you don't care to see the movie, you just won't go! If you don't think your children should see it, you won't let them. So, when the final count is in, who is the best critic? You or the censorship board? 1

Play's Faults Blamed On Feeble Direction

by JO PARNELL

All that saved the Palatine Players' recent production of "Gigi" from utter collapse was the performance of Cynthia Vogel as Gigi, and Pat Paris as Andree, Gigi's mother. These outstanding performances brought vigor to a production dead in every other respect.

Mrs. Vogel's portrayal of the little girl, Gigi, was captivating and entirely convincing Her voice, her body and her face spoke eloquently of a 16-year-old girl to whom everything in life was a delight, and her every entrance was a pleasure to the audience. Only in the last scene did her characterization become indefinite. Here she seemed to be confused, switching from little girl Gigi, to the woman Gilbert, and never fully achieving the necessary transition to maturity in this last and climactic scene. This swift change would be a difficult feat for even a very experienced actress, for it requires the most subtle of touches. But judging from her excellent performance up to this point I fell certain that had she had competent direction, Mrs. Vogel could have handled it admirably.

AFTER HER first entrance Pat Paris (Andree), had completely captured her audience, and if applause could have kept her on stage, she would have remained there through the entire show. Her portrayal was brought to life through the subtle use of gestures and her expressive face. The slightest movement of her hand was enough to call forth laughter. Miss Paris could not however save the play, as her role plays no part in the movement of the story itself and so she could only bring comic relief. Without a doubt she stole every scene in which she appeared —even from her charming pixie daughter, Gigi.

The other performances, however, fell far short of the high quality achieved by Mrs. Vogel and Miss Paris. Too often throughout the play, they seemed to be reading lines from a book and conversation seemed stilted and forced. It was this quality—speech with little thought of meaning—which marked the rather lifeless and shallow performances of the rest of the cast and caused the play to develop as a monotone, never reaching its full climax.

DON HEYDEN, physically, was Gaston in every way, but here the resemblance ends. One could not help but wonder what attraction drew Gigi to Gaston, for there seemed nothing particularly alluring in the man portrayed on that stage. He came on with a sad and worried look upon his face, and there it remained through six scenes. Even with the announcement of his engagement to Gigi, the only expression that could be detected was that of uneasy elation.

With the exception of Gigi and Gaston, the role of Mme. Alverez, Gigi's grandmother was the most demanding, calling for many different and seemingly conflicting attitudes—determination to successfully launch Gigi in her "career," desire to protect her, and above all, her love for her granddaughter. Unfortunately, however, Helen Bodelson never came alive in the role. While these emotions were expressed at various times, they seemed to be turned on and off, and she was not able to develop any continuity or growth of character.

The sets did nothing to brighten this production.

The apartment of the well-to-do Aunt Alicia, looked rather unfinished and did not give the impression of wealth and ease. Most distracting were a painting on the back wall which was supposed to represent a window with a view of the Eiffel Tower, two flower prints cut out of magazines and taped on the wall to simulate framed pictures, and a valance sloppily draped across the supposed window.

THE VARIOUS and ominous shades of red used in the home of Mme. Alverez, were so conflicting that they overwhelmed the stage and fairly drowned out the actors. The lighting also helped to increase the funereal atmosphere by casting deep shadows and hiding the faces of the actors in the backstage area.

Most of the weaknesses of this unhappy production can be traced to impotent direction, which failed in even so elementary a task as placing the actors on the stage so they could be seen. There were several instances when one had to strain to see someone hidden behind a piece of furniture or another actor. The high point of the play, as it is written, occurs when Gigi emerges as a woman in the last scene. When this transformation failed to materalize on stage, climax became anti-climax and the show fell flat.

The feeble direction muted the vibrant comedy and obcured the tenderness and pathos so vital to the play.

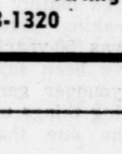
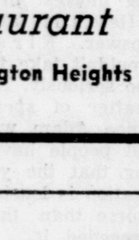
FOOD FOR THOUGHT





by Edward Rentz

Frozen rock lobster tails can be served in minutes — boiled, broiled or en casserole. The boiling time in minutes should equal the weight in ounces plus 3 minutes if you're serving straight from the pot, 2 if you are going to reheat in a sauce . . .

To broil the tails, parboil for 4 minutes per 6 oz.. Cool slightly, slit the cartilage down the middle and pull it out from each side of the shell. Crack the back lengthwise, use a skewer from stem to stern to prevent curling, douse with butter, salt and pepper, broil until brown and serve with a dry, white wine — ummmm a gourmet's delight!!

The Way We See It

Retarded Children Need Our Support

This is National Retarded Children's week, a most fitting time to review what services are available in the northwest suburbs for the retarded and handicapped.

All retarded children are mentally handicapped. All handicapped children are not retarded, however.

Local groups affiliated with the Illinois Council on Mentally Retarded Children are the Countryside association and the Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded.

In addition, the city of Rolling Meadows is the home of the Clearbrook School for Retarded and Little City, south of Palatine, is the first residential school for retarded.

Many school districts offer special classes for the blind, deaf, perceptually handicapped, and educable mentally handicapped (EMH).

The Countryside school in Barrington, now seven years old, works with 20 trainable handicapped children (I.Q. below 50). These children attend class from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. each day and are kept happy and taught simple skills.

Only under a strictly supervised working situation with one who understands their problems, can they support themselves as adults.

In Park Ridge the Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded sponsors vocational training for retarded young adults and children in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, and Park Ridge. The shelter program is geared to individual social, cultural, and economic development within a person's capacities. Training includes weaving, leather work, assembling, envelope stuffing and other mailing services.

At the Clearbrook school, 15 students attend class from 9 a.m. until noon. They are taught to speak, simple vocabulary, muscle coordination, and simple forms of reading and writing.

The philosophy behind the Little City residential community is to provide an environment of love and organization where children can find security and peace, yet remain near their homes.

All children are provided with the means for a useful existence for the rest of their lives.

Wheeling teaches two blind children in the regular classroom. They use Braille readers and participate in regular reading groups, drawing periods, and normal classroom activities.

Elk Grove has a class for the deaf that serves area students.

Wheeling has a room, started this year, for the perceptually handicapped child — the child who doesn't perceive, communicate, or relate things the way a normal child does because of improper functioning or damage to the brain.

Special classes are held for EMH elementary students in Mt. Prospect and Palatine. Arlington Heights has a high school EMH room.

All children in special schools or special rooms are fortunate. All are handicapped — some through birth injury, some through imperfect prenatal development, some through accident or illness.

Present services in this area for these children are just a mere beginning. A campaign in progress this week merits the support of every person, be they parents of handicapped or normal children or not parents at all.

Educators know that the severely handicapped child in the regular classroom hinders the advancement of others. Nor can the handicapped child in the regular classroom learn.

The handicapped child who is not in any school is being deprived of the constitutional right of equal educational opportunities for all.

When a child is not allowed to develop according to his full potential, he becomes a drag upon society.

With special training, the trainably handicapped child can become adjusted, even assume simple manual tasks. The EMH child can support himself with special education. The perceptually handicapped child can often be taught enough to return to the regular classroom. Some have gone on to college. Some will always need a special room.

There are many kinds of handicaps. Present facilities can handle only a few types and a limited number of children because of insufficient funds and facilities.

With your interest and support, need research, training, and building can continue to expand present schools and establish new ones.

For Happy Thanksgiving, Make It a Safe Holiday

It would be interesting to discover, in this era of motivation research, what the word "holiday" means to most people. What is the first thing that flashes to mind when the word is mentioned?

Time off from work? A trip? An excuse to celebrate? A tragic accident toll?

Unfortunately, truthful answers probably would place all of those higher on the list than the true meaning of the holiday. And it's especially unfortunate that holidays must have an association with high accident tolls.

Thanksgiving, with the deepest spiritual significance, is one of the deadliest holidays of all, according to the National Safety Council. Ironically, it achieves this terrible distinction precisely because we want it to be such a wonderful occasion.

It is a sentimental holiday. People will drive long distances for the traditional family reunion, undaunted by the worst weather. More travel — especially winter travel at highway speeds — means more accidents.

It is a convivial holiday. The joyous spirit of the occasion is too often sought in liquid form.

This deadly conjunction of the throttle and bottle has dimmed the true radiance of that first Thanksgiving.

The National Safety Council has asked for church leadership during this holiday season to point out that accident prevention is practical religion, and that good will toward men can find no finer expression than behind the wheel of a car.

Fund-Raisers Note: Hayes Is 'Fed Up'

by CHARLES HAYES

Let's face it: I'm just mean, cheap, unreasonable, selfish.

I came to this conclusion the other day, after I realized that, unconsciously, I cringe whenever there's a knock at the door, I cower whenever the telephone rings. I live in a state of near-tension.

For like hundreds of other suburbanites, I'm surrounded by a legion of fund-raisers.

Is this for YMCA, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Bluebirds, Cub Scouts, Campfire Girls, Brownies, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Retarded Children, Crippled Children, Orphaned Children, the hospital, church, world relief, CARE, Family Service, the home and aid society, brain research, polio, heart, cancer, leukemia, multiple sclerosis, nephritis, arthritis, tuberculosis, the blind, the deaf, or the dumb?

Fellow fund-raisers, I regret to announce — I'm broke.

I acknowledge it "merits support," but I can no longer help "meet needs."

I'VE DECIDED to join those uncivic cynics who have banded together in a sort of "There's-just-getting to -be-too-many-of-these" spirit.

The proliferation of charity drives is ridiculous. A visit from a fund-raiser is getting to be almost a weekly occurence. Or so it seems.

As a typical resident, I can expect to be called upon for donations to 10 to 20 or more charity appeals.

No one claims these aren't the best of causes. They all are—that's what makes it tough to turn any of them down or give one woman just a buck and another a check for $10.

SO UNTIL OUR community finally comes to its senses and does something about this chaos in charity, I hereby close the door on all donations except to three which I consider most important to my welfare and the good of the whole community. These three include my church, the community hospital, and family service agency.

What of the other organizations in need of my support?

The obvious answer to these charitable ills is a united fund drive, an idea which has consistently failed to marshal much interest or support among our residents. Perhaps the time is ripe to reconsider the plan, if other suburbanites are at last as weary as I am of the ills of fund raising in the northwest area.

What are the merits of a united appeal?

FOREMOST, TO those of us who answer the doorbell at any rate, is that it does away with the nuisance and impracticality of repeated solicitation.

This feature, however desirable, does not constitute its main benefit. The finest feature of the yearly donation system is that it makes for wiser spending of charitable funds.

Under the present operation, each fund-raising group shoots for the moon and the bewildered giver must try to figure out his own budget. In a town with a Community Chest, a board of local citizens decides how much money to allot to each member youth and welfare agency. They take into account such vital factors as the kind and amount of service each agency offers the community, the source of income of each agency and local needs for various services.

THIS APPROACH—which bases decisions upon expert knowledge—is the only fair way to distribute such monies. It is fair to the giver, to the receiver, to the entire community. No group would be left out in the cold, dollar-wise, because it couldn't find people to work for it. Any group, a school for retarded children, family service agency, scouting council or what have you, could join.

Park Ridge, Des Plaines, and Prospect Heights now have united plans in operation.

They have shown the way to other northwest suburbs. It seems to me that a Community Chest is the only fair, sensible solution to the helter-skelter giving problems of our suburbs.

'Atomic Club' Race Is Threat to Peace

by WILLIAM DULANEY

As the United States and Great Britain prepare once again to sit down with Russia to discuss banning nuclear weapons testing, this country finds itself in the ironic position of at least tacitly agreeing to France's upcoming detonation of a nuclear weapon in the Sahara desert.

The nuclear testing ban picture, agreement upon which hope is based for disarmament, is further clouded by the fact that France will not be the last nation to join the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union in the "atomic club."

It would in fact surprise few scientists if France's announcement of an atomic blast were shortly followed by a like one from Pieping. Communist China is known to already have a small atomic reactor in operation and to be working feverishly toward the goal of nuclear weapon possession.

OTHER industrially advanced nations deemed capable of acquiring "the bomb" in the not too distant future are West Germany, Japan, Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Poland. No doubt many other countries further down the scale of development dream of the day when their prestige and power potential will be enhanced by possession of nuclear weapons, either through their own development or by acquisition from allies.

Though the Afro-Asian countries have taken France's impending Sahara explosion to the United Nations in protest, nothing is going to stop France from becoming the fourth nuclear power. Premier de Gaulle adamantly argues that his country must have nuclear weapons to work out her own destiny. With such weapons he no doubt hopes to restore France to her pre-World War II status of a first class power who can meet both her allies and Soviet Russia on equal terms at Geneva's summit meeting.

It is safe to assume that the United States and Great Britain would prefer that France remain without nuclear weapons. They are, however, hardly in a position to suggest she abandon her test plans, having themselves repeatedly spurned like pleas by other nations until Russia maneuvered them into declaring a moratorium on testing until December 31.

AVOIDING THE larger issue of the danger to world peace with admission of another country to the "atomic club," this country has thus far, through its United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, limited comment on France's impending test to a statement that we believe the test can be conducted without danger to the surrounding area.

It would be interesting to get the Tunisian opinion on this when one recalls it was not too many months ago that a French army officer, acting independently, ordered the bombing of the Tunisian village of Sidi Sakrit for sheltering Algerian rebels.

Perhaps France's scheduled test will not adversely affect the Tunisians. The product of such a test, however, if placed in the hands of an independtly acting army officer, could affect Tunisia and the world vitally.

RUSSIA NO doubt would also prefer that China go without nuclear weapons. Such will not be the case. Thus even if agreement is reached by Great Britain, the United States and Russia on stopping nuclear tests, there will be other countries working to acquire "the bomb."

As members of the "atomic club" increase so will the chances that an irresponsible act, spread of a local conflict or a human or mechanical failure when applied to nuclear weapons will trigger mass death against which we remain essentially defenseless.

Cushiony Pew: Sign of Times?

by MARTIN E. MARTY

Dear Mr. Paddock:

Only last week I was commiserating with your trusted colleagues and employees, Messrs. Hayes and Dulaney, about the woes of column-writing.

We decided that the most difficult part was selecting a topic out of the welter of issues that present themselves.

So this week I want to thank you for providing me with a topic. You see, I not only write for your papers — I read them, too. And so I read your request for me to explain whether as a nation we are more religious than we used to be.

THE CONTEXT, as I recall, was this paradox: you heard a preacher bemoaning the sad state of the spiritual life in the U.S.A. He was complaining, as if soon the churches were to close doors and the faith would pass away. This didn't square with your own observations of full churches and increasing interest in religion.

Here's my attempt at an answer. First of all, I wouldn't take the preacher too seriously. It's mainly a matter of speaking. Ever since Adam was 50-years-old people have been saying that the younger generation is lousing things up worse than the one that preceded it.

We don't have to buy that theory.

People probably are about equi-distant from God in every generation, and thus equally in need of his mercy. I like to illustrate this with the name of a new magazine: The Noble Savage. Man is a torn creature, tugged by his savagery, yet equipped with an image of nobility. He is always going to be that way. If he looks worse in a certain generation, it is probably because he's given more creative outlets for his mischief.

SO, TOO, THE religious impulse may appear to come and go, but a certain amount of illusion is involved when we try to measure it.

The old prophet, like the preacher you heard on the radio, implied that no one was left to believe except himself. It turned out that there were 7000 others: not a mean start for a congregation of faithful. On the other hand, we have to learn to get some perspective when it seems as if everyone is religious.

That's what it's like in the U.S.A. today. Everyone seems to be religious. Your observation there is correct. I'm up on my figures right now because I wrote an encyclopedia yearbook article last week in which they were needed: the nation grew by 1.7 per cent in 1958 while the religious population grew 5 per cent. Sixty-three per cent of our people, (a new high) 109,557,741 of them, are estimated to be on church rolls. Protestants, who usually count maturing children and adults, number 61,504,669. Roman Catholics, who include the baptized infants, can claim 39,509,508 and Orthodoxy, which uses the same system, comes to 2,545,318. Judaism has about 5,500,000 people. Church building is the fourth largest private building category. Attendance is relatively high.

MUCH OF THIS is to the good. It is easier to present a religious claim in America than anywhere else today, I suppose. I wouldn't prefer any year to 1959 for either problem or challenge for the Christian faith. But if we probe a bit more we can see that because we are religiously-affiliated we are not necessarily as religious as we should be or, better, as Christian as we might be. One little sample: prosperous Americans "tipped" God at the rate of hardly more than a dollar a week last year, $62.67 in all. You can usually tell what Americans are thinking about by the way they are investing. And that $62.67 wouldn't go far in most American homes toward white side-walls, color television, cigarettes, or the subsidy to the bartender. We have other things on our mind than eternity and God.

We are religious, but we are not necessarily Chirstian as long as we have certain gaps to plug between Christian claims and Christian achievements.

It is sometimes rather difficult, for example, to find churches where the vision of the City of God lifts men from the illusory paradise of the City of Man. Seldom do we find people with a vision of need on the other side of the world to match that of their local program and the plush of their church parlors.

Churches are as often used to prolong social injustice as to remove it.

As long as kids are hungry and hearts are lonely and limbs are cold; as long as flames of hate are fanned and man is a wolf to man; as long as rent-gougers gouge and payers-off pay off and people are victimized and we as Christians sit back in comfort we cannot claim that our religion is yet transformed into Christianity. You see, religion can be used selfishly. It can fascinate us with man and keep us from God.

I don't suppose that real faith ever appeared in a massive way, so your preacher friend is wrong again: there is probably as much authentic faith as always. But much of your observation is of the religion whose hymn is:

He leadeth me, O blessed thought,
To air-conditioned chapels fraught
With cushioned pews where I may see
The minister on closed TV.

By the way, thanks for gray morning's meditation!

Representation Is Our Need

It seems to me that the primary function of a Home Owners Association should be true representation of all people living within a prescribed community. The apathy displayed by certain of our district representatives, when faced with a decision in regard to a subject which should be of concern to the entire community, has appalled and disgusted me. I am speaking of the sudden mushrooming of a gas station on the corner of Roselle and Bode rds.

CERTAIN OF our representatives have made the statement that it was no concern of theirs, they didn't have to look at it. Is the scope of their representation then, confined only to the limits of their own back yards? Must the glare of mercury lights invade the bedrooms of district representatives and the foul odors associated with a gas station personally assail their nostrils before they are prodded into action? Is it their own personal desires they are representing? These same representatives have expressed an intent to run for higher office within the Home Owners Association. If, as district representative, they were not concerned with the community as a whole, how will they react, if elected to higher office, when faced with community problems which do not personally affect them? Every home owner who has indicated his faith in the association by paying his membership fee is entitled to some return on his investment; or does this two-dollar fee represent a charity contribution?

I have paid my two dollars and ask that these representatives starch their backbones and make a supreme effort to resolve a course of action against this offensive structure.

Village Needs Dept. Stores

Palatine is large enough to have at least a few excellent stores. What we are really lacking are some good clothing stores, women's clothing stores. The few that we have now are very small and have no selection. I have to buy all my clothing in other towns. If I do find something that I like in Palatine out of the three or four styles that they have, you will see yourself coming and going since everyone in town has the same dress. The few styles that they have are not bad, but who wants to look like everyone else. Also, the clothes are too highly priced for what they are.

Palatine has a large enough population to support several good department stores, and, I feel, that this is the only way to solve our problem, with some good large department stores. If it had a good selection a department store could do a tremendous business. All the people who now are going to other near-by cities for their clothing would soon be patronizing this store.

Spare Children 'Warped Mind'

Angry Citizen of Mt. Prospect:

My daughter is in a Girl Scout troop and God bless her leaders and every leader who takes a couple of hours each week to help these girls.

I feel sorry for a mother like you who is trying to keep her children tied to her apron strings. For heavens sake, untie the strings and let the children grow up without a warped mind like yours.

Public Funds Are Misused

It was distressing, when walking around town the other day, to notice the amount of diagonal parking permitted on our newly, widened downtown streets and, I was shocked to discover 12 hour all-day meters on some of them.

The primary reason for the widening of any street is to improve property values and the flow of traffic. It is a fundamental that additional parking spaces can be created in "off street" facilities at less cost than any other method and, that it is economically unsound to widen or improve a street where a prime reason for such improvement is to increase parking spaces.

I MADE the initial motion for the downtown improvement seven years ago when I was a trustee of the village and, after my term expired, I continued to serve as a member and president of the Board of Local Improvements until all of the public hearings were completed and the contracts signed. During these years no thought was ever entertained that a purpose of the improvement was to increase parking facilities. For, that was not the case and during the many public hearings the people were assured that the reason for the improvement was not more parking spaces.

We have not kept faith with the people who were assessed by permitting all day parking in front of their homes and places of business. We have not kept faith with the public at large for, as a result, we have expended public funds unwisely. In my opinion, whoever is in charge of the parking pattern and parking meter placement should take steps to immediately rectify an unsound and impractical usage of our public street.

The contracts for the downtown street widening projects were let at amounts thousands of dollars less than the estimated cost. By law, assessments are spread on the basis of estimated cost. Where there is a substantial difference between estimated and actual costs a refund should be made. To the best of my knowledge both of these projects are now complete and all of the costs should have been compiled. Therefore, refunds should be made as soon as a procedure can be determined.

Housewife Is Piqued by Plan

I have just read, with no little bit of annoyance, the article on your women's pages relating how the Congress for Better Living hosted by Centex, interviewed 10 housewives and then drew up a list of what the housewife wants most in a home.

It seems to me that a good, spacious floor plan always has been, still is and always will be desirable. For the Congress on Better Living to need 10 housewives to gather and come up with this elementary gem of information seems just too, too much.

Almost everyone would agree that spaciousness of living areas, adequate bedrooms, several bathrooms, loads of storage space, entrance halls, outside basement entrances and what-have-you are all very nice. We've found that the real trick is to get all this space along with good construction and at a price we can afford!

IT IS interesting to note that, apparently, no price ranges, no square footage nor types of construction were discussed at the Congress. Just what size is a spacious home? Or more to the point, how big or small is an adequate bedroom and/or spacious living area? Surely, what one homemaker considers adequate might fall far short of another's dream. And what's this about space for more children in growing families? Most mothers just add another bunk bed, although I'm sure they would like a few vacant rooms around to accommodate, should they be needed.

More to the point would have been questions like: In a $20,000 home of the best construction with approximately 12,000 square feet, what do you consider the most important interior features? In a $30,000 home with 20,000 square feet?

SINCE THE Congress on Better Living is so generous with space at an unmentioned cost, let's consider a few fireplaces and built-ins to make living more comfortable. True, these could be added later, but at a much greater expense than when building. An indoor pool would also be a nice interior feature and of course an outdoor pool would be a nice outdoor feature and also provide an attractive view for the living room at the rear. Garages are also handy.

One last thought: we housewives not included in the Session also agree with the other 10 that a trouble-free heating system and adequate wiring are important. Who ever heard of wanting a heating system that didn't work? Or a wiring system that blew a fuse every time an appliance is plugged in?

Offers Defense Of Girl Scouts

I would like to answer the letter written by Angry Citizen to the Fence Post November 5, 1959.

First may I say, it was obvious that the letter was written in anger and everyone knows that anger clouds the mind and prevents clear thinking. Angry Citizen claims to believe that the various organizations for youth, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, are not worthwhile and are conducted by adults who simply don't want to stay home. Now I ask you, how mistaken can one person be?

I rise in defense of the Girl Scout organization around the world. The leaders of which are volunteers, usually the mother of one member of the troop, assisted by a committee of volunteers, the mothers and fathers of the rest of the troop.

YOU, ANGRY CITIZEN, claim that good citizenship and good conduct can be taught far better in the home than in any organization — do you set aside at least two hours a week, supplemented by research, to the teaching of the meaning of patriotism, American History, International Friendship, Fair Play and Group Loyalty? Do you provide opportunities for your children to meet children from other countries and discover for themselves that, except for the color of their skin, the difference of a dress, the strangeness of accent-easily understood after a few sentences, children are pretty much the same the world over. Do you take your children, on their days off from school, to the Chicago Historical Society Museum, there to bring to life and meaning the wonderful history and development of our country? Do you take them to the Conservatories to view the plants from around the world, travel through a tropical garden to the accompaniment of such comments as "look bananas", "I thought all orchids were purple", "a rubber tree — real rubber?". Do you take them through factories so that they may see, feel and understand the creation of many of the articles used everyday, that would otherwise be taken for granted.

Do you spend the time, money and physical effort necessary to take your children camping, in an effort to give them a deeper understanding of the wonders of God's world? Do you teach the basic rules of safety, first-aid, and survival?

IF YOU DO ALL these things as a family — you are indeed to be commended! — and — criticized for your selfish unwillingness to share your God given talents and deep understanding of the needs of children with other children and their families.

You see, Angry Citizen, it is not that we don't want to stay home — but rather that we feel a need to share our talents, and family, and happiness with others.

Come and See For Yourself

To an angry citizen of Mt. Prospect:

After reading your article in the Fence Post, I know that you do not know what scouts accomplish. I wish to extend an invitation to you or any other person who feels as you do to attend our meeting and see for yourself just what scouting does for our children.

No special appointment is ever necessary. We meet every Tuesday at 185 Forest Glen, Wood Dale, from 3:30 to 5:30. Just come into the basement and you may ask any questions of any girl or just sit and observe them in action.

BY ALL MEANS, bring your children. Let them see what they are missing.

I can go on for hours and tell you what good they do, but the best thing is for you to see for yourself just what has been going on for almost 48 years.

If you do not visit our troop we will know that you do not care to find out what good we do.

Query Police Chief Firing

(Editor's note: The following is in reference to the recent dismissal from the Itasca police force of Capt. Joseph Dettlo. A letter was delivered to Dettlo October 14 by Chief George Cites and signed by James Clayson, village president. It said, in part, "It is with regret that I inform you that your services are no longer necessary. This decision has been reached by the chief of police after submitting the question to the president and board of trustees. Please accept my wish for your future success.")

Recently our police chief announced that our police captain had resigned "to go into private business." We do not believe this is true.

The captain was told his "services were no longer needed." No explanation was included, he had no hearing and no opportunity to learn why his superiors were dissastisfied. Should a village employee be dismissed without benefit of a review or an opportunity to justify the methods of performing his job?

OUR CAPTAIN conducted the department efficiently. His judgment was impartial - he executed his job with laws as prescribed by the village, state and nation. He received regular instructions from the chief during the latter's absence and followed those instructions faithfully.

The captain's insistence on efficiency, neatness and courtesy was in some instances met with resentment. Instead of being allowed to pull the discontents into line, his authority and responsibilities were gradually diminished.

Let us have a well organized police force with a captain who is given power for firm controls. Let a violation of the law be judged on facts alone - not on who the violator is. The proper function of our law enforcement agency is a necessity for our welfare.

She's Unhappy With Bargain

Congratulations: I was a lucky winner in the Mt. Prospect crazy days. Needless to say I was very elated to find my number posted in one of the leading women's wear shops. My number was worth a dress for $6.66.

Now one would assume there would be a selection of dresses in a certain price range to choose from. After checking my number the girl went in back and came out with The Dress, a black velvet affair, minus the belt and also a hook.

That was my lucky number that I could have had for $6.66; also, it wasn't my size, which was my tough luck had I wanted it. My number was one of three; whether the other's showed up or not I don't know, but my guess is they had this one dress and if you were a complete idiot, you could have it.

THIS TYPE of advertising was nothing but a come-on and should be stopped to avoid harming the honest merchants who participate in these sales.

It's an insult to one's intelligence to go from store to store looking and hoping for a lucky number only to find out some old merchandise is being pushed on you as a tremendous bargain. While it can't be called a fraud, inasmuch as she did have a dress, it's hardly what one would expect from a supposedly reputable store.

Everyone knows what with all the new shopping centers going up it's going to give the surrounding towns pretty stiff competition. We all know these sales are for the purpose of bringing out the people and stimulate the interest, but a few more of these farces and they won't have a thing to worry about. Things like this have a way of getting around. I know I, for one, won't be burned again. It will have to be one below zero in August before I go to an alleged sale in Mt. Prospect again.!

Medical Series Is Worthwhile

I imagine you're receiving mounds of correspondence this week. Congratulations on your interesting series of articles on doctors.

It's a good thing for the people to investigate any profession so unquestionably revered for so many years as medicine. Your first two articles seemed a bit destructive, though. I'll bet the people who hate doctors tore into your ideas like ravening wolves. Personally, I feel slightly in the middle of the fracas: my husband is a second year medical student at U of I.

I HAVEN'T met any counterparts of your Dr. Travers. In my childhood we had a hard-working German physician who tried to give hoards of people the best medical care he could . . . for nominal fees. He is regarded by today's "doctor conniseurs" with horror. They "wouldn't take a sick horse to him."

Since my marriage and coming to Illinois, we have another "horse doctor." He has no swimming pool, lives in the same quarters in which he practices, charges reasonable fees, spends little time with patients who aren't organically sick. He doesn't play God, but he's a good man to go to if you're sick.

My husband and I and our three small children aren't receiving any "helping hand from uncle sam." He works Friday night, Saturday, and Sunday in a local store; he is gone at 6:30 every morning until 6 in the evening, he allows an hour for supper and the children, then he digs deep into the ten-dollar books. Saturday morning he has physical diagnosis in a Chicago hospital, and rushes back to get in eight hours of work at the store. Except for some piano-teaching money his mother sends every two months, this is our entire income. The prospect is no brighter for the next two years—in fact, worse. Then comes internship and residency (2 to 3 years) at a fabulous $150 a month. Then people smile and chuck us under the chin, "then you start to cash in, eh? heh, heh." No! My husband is planning on medical missions (foreign).

THE ONLY medical organization I know much about is the Student AMA. I avidly read their monthly journal. I find little about "new methods of increasing his income." However, much of what you say is bound to be true. I'm sure there are some mercenary physicians, as well as mercenary newspaper editors. It seems a lot to expect all those in the medical profession to remain unsullied and pure when the rest of the States is teeming with the worst kind of materialism.

Best of luck on the rest of the series, but couldn't you try to give both sides?

Music makes life so enjoyable and local teen-agers are a happy lot these days.

They are graced with competent music instructors and with high school administrators who emphasize that music has its rightful place in high school activities just as much as athletics.

Interest in music, down the past few years, is reviving at local high schools. At present, about one student in seven is taking musical instruction in local high schools.

But the number is growing. Ed Volz, band director at Prospect high, reports that his 53 musicians of this year is expected to exceed 110 next September.

Experience level of the musicians is extremely high, averaging more than four years per student in the concert band. The grade school music program is the reason for the high degree of proficiency among teenagers.

Yet, string instruments have fallen by the wayside. Each school has probably less than a dozen string instrument players. One reason, according to John Shoemaker, Palatine band director, is that it takes twice as long to learn a string instrument.

Yet music is becoming specialized as Fred Schmoyer now has a harmony class and a German band at Arlington high school.

Yes, music is in the air in the suburbs!

THE UNIFORM is an important part of any band. Here Glen Kierrmas and Dave Nix (left) model the Prospect high marching band uniform and Norm Bendell and Tom Kucharik the concert band uniform.

THE SOLITARY of a practice room is enjoyed by Gayle Kopelien, No. 1 French horn in the Palatine concert band.

BANDS NEED MUSIC and Palatine high school director John Shoemaker is in the process of filling some arrangements. Each packet costs about $6.

BASSOON, NOT PLAYED in the marching band, is the key instrument in a concert band. Arlington musicians Suzann Russell and Wayne Thompson are the performers.

Dianne and Richard Kirtley To Reside in Oregon, Ill.

A romance which began at Beloit college in the fall of 1957 was culminated in marriage November 7 when Dianne Kowal of Mt. Prospect became the bride of Richard Kirtley of Oregon, Ill. St. Alphonsus church in Prospect Heights was the scene of the morning wedding, its altar banked with baskets of white mums for the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kowal, 101 N. Stevenson lane, Mt. Prospect, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kirtley of Bushnell, Ill. The newly married couple will reside in Oregon, Ill., where the bridegroom is teaching mathematics and physics at the local high school. He was graduated from Beloit college last June and was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. His bride was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority while at Beloit.

COMING down the aisle on the arm of her father the bride wore a wedding gown of silk taffeta detailed in peau d'ange lace motifs accented with pearls and sequins. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a small swedish crown trimmed with pearls and sequins, and she carried a single orchid surrounded by mums and stephanotis.

Mrs. Mary Goryn of Mt. Prospect was Matron of honor in a mint green silk taffeta dress with a full skirt caught up at the hemline by two bows. Her cascade bouquet was of pale yellow fugi mums and bronze button mums. Two bridesmaids and two junior bridesmaids were included in the wedding party, all gowned identically to the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Pat Kirtley of Bushnell, sister of the bridegroom, and Cathy Couch of Cleveland, Ohio, a sorority sister of the bride. Junior bridesmaids were both cousins of the bride, Sharon Bielawa of Chicago and Diana Kowal of Mt. Prospect.

KEN GORYN was best man, and ushers were Glenn Rogers of Warrenville, Ill,. and Tom Rath of Chicago, both fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception was held in the evening at Brookwood country club in Addison for 100 guests, and immediately following the wedding ceremony 40 guests were served a luncheon in the home of the bride's parents. Greeting the guests, the bride's mother wore a sapphire green satin sheath dress, and the bridegroom's mother wore pink satin and lace. Both had white orchid corsages.

Marlene Kerschke Is Thomas Theis' Bride

(Jenart Studio

Pink and white was used for the color scheme for Miss Marlene Kerschke's wedding September 5 in Our Lady of the Wayside church to Thomas J. Theis. Pink gladioli and white mums decorated the altar of the church and the bridesmaids as well as the bride were also in shades of pink. Fr. O'Hara officiated at the noon-time, double ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kerschke, 13 N. Wille st., Mt. Prospect, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Theis, 307 Wing st., Arlington Heights.

The bride's gown was of blush pink lace with taffeta cummerbund and trim. The dress was fashioned with bateau neckline, with appliqued roses at the neckline and scattered pink seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her crown was of the same lace and held a blush pink veil with the same pearls and sequins. The dress was made with full, circle skirt. Stephanotis, pink glamellias, ti leaves and ivy adorned the prayerbook which she carried.

Dreary Direct Mail

It's rapidly getting to the point when I dread seeing the mailman treading his weary way down the street. He has good reason to be weary. And, I have good reason to dread.

I should like to dissect the brain that thought up the direct mail advertising gimmick. Having out of town relatives, I am inclined to snatch the mail out of the box as the mailman goes down the front steps. Then comes a period of anticipation followed by frustration. This is, in turn followed by seething anger and a desire to hit something or somebody.

In just one batch of mail, I was urged to join White Cross, Blue Cross, Orange Cross, just plain Cross and Omaha of Mutual or some such hospitalization plan. I was sorely tempted to join them all and become rich just by having my appendix removed.

In another batch of mail, I was told that our insurance plan was not much good. Well, maybe they all didn't go that far but at least five companies assured me that we weren't really protected until we went in for their package plan. A plan which, if I understand it, will guard the little woman against ever wanting for anything in case. For practically pennies a day.

I have been importuned to join the Book of the Month club, The Literary Guild, the Dollar Book Club, the Fifty Cent Book Club and the Quarter Book Club. I have been eagerly asked to join the RCA Record Club, The Columbia Record Club, The Decca Record Club, the Mecca Record Club, Mercury, Dot, Flash In The Pan Record Club. You name it, I've been asked.

I won't do it. I'm the kind that would never send that slip in saying that I do NOT want this month's selection thereby ending up with a house full of books I don't care to read and a stack of records I will never listen to. I know. I've tried it.

I wish I could train myself to not even open these things. It would serve them right if I didn't even read all the guff. Unfortunately, I always open it on my way to the wastebasket. I'm weak that way. But, not so weak as to join.

Richard Adler Takes Bride in Madison

Wedding vows were exchanged recently between Miss Shirleen Muggly, Madison, and Richard Adler, Wheeling, in St. Thomas Catholic church, Madison. Fr. J. M. Rueter officiated at the nuptial high mass using a double ring wedding service. Miss Muggly is the daughter of Dr. J. A. Muggly. Mr. Adler is the son of Nick Adler Jr., Wheeling.

Mrs. Walter Foley played traditional liturgical marches and accompanied Mrs. Verald Westby, soloist, who sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother."

Baskets of white mums and pompons were used at the altar and the pews were marked with white bows.

THE BRIDE WAS given in marriage by her father. She wore a princess style white peau de soie gown fashioned with long sleeves tapered over the wrist, an oval neckline and a center front panel of applique Alencon lace. The hooped bouffant skirt fell into a chapel train and her shoulder-length veil of imported Belgian lace was secured to a juliet cap. She carried a crescent bouquet of white feathered mums centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Richard Bade of Chicago was matron of honor while Miss Carol Adler, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Ellen Mellady, East Chicago, Ind., were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of toast antique satin in cocktail length styled with peplum sleeves, v-neck and back waist bows. They wore matching bow headpieces with circular veils and white gloves and carried sheaves of wheat and daisy pompons.

George Braasch, Lawrence Hoffman and Richard Carey, classmates of the bridegroom, ushered and attended the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the Madison golf club following the wedding service.

After a wedding trip the couple is now at home in Chicago, where the bridegroom is associated in the family business.

The Ultimate in Lessons

Dear Peg:

I think the lessons that Megan and Bridget are taking now must be the very end in lesson-taking. Each Saturday morning at 9:30 they report to the gymnasium of our Recreation Center for instructions in the art of mastering the trampoline! When Bridget's friend came to stay over night a couple of weeks ago and asked to be awakened in time to get to her trampoline lesson, I thought the child was just being funny and marveled at this seven year old's rare sense of humor. But she wasn't being funny and I gathered from the stern look I got from Bridget that I wasn't supposed to be laughing so heartily at her girl friend's request. I quieted down quickly and assured little Suzy that I'd call her in plenty of time, still thinking to myself that this really was the limit and that it must be a sign of the times—the trampoline seems to have come into its own with the advent of television, having been featured on many studio-sized-circuses and on the Ed Sullivan type show.

It didn't surprise me at all to have Bridget ask me the next morning to go with Suzy to her lesson—just to watch, of course. This was just the sort of physical activity that would appeal to Bridget—the more physical the better. And it surprised me even less to hear her tell how much fun she had on the trampoline, after telling the instructor that she would like to join the class. Megan, listening to this account of the sheer ecstacy to be found in jumping on the trampoline, insisted that she too should be allowed to take lessons.

Last Saturday they took their third lesson and at their request I went along to watch them. We have a new and beautiful recreation building in our town, and judging by the activity going on throughout the building on Saturday mornings, it surely answers a need for the boys and girls and their leisure time. There were ping pong games, arts and crafts, dancing, many boys playing basketball just to mention the activities I saw as we checked in at the desk, paid our 25 cents a piece and walked downstairs to the gymnasium. This sort of a center is one big answer to juvenile delinquency!

The instructor, a physical education assistant at the high school, greeted Megan and Bridget and they took their places in the line of about ten children surrounding the trampoline. Each child took a turn at jumping up and down, landing on the derriere and bouncing up to a standing position again. They were all quite good at it and a couple of the more advanced girls could even land on their feet facing the opposite direction. From the looks on their faces they were all having a wonderful time and hated to see the forty-five minutes come to an end.

So all we need now are pogo-stick lessons—come to think of it, they probably have those at the Recreation Center too!

My love,
Patty.

Nancy Heimsoth Becomes Bride of Gordon Goebbert

Six attendants, wearing gowns with champagne silk organza skirts and almond brown velveteen bodices preceded Miss Nancy Heimsoth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Heimsoth, Algonquin rd., Des Plaines, down the aisle of Immanuel Lutheran church, Des Plaines, when she became the bride of Gordon Goebbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Goebbert, 20 E. Algonquin rd., Arlington Heights. The service took place at 5:30 p.m. October 10 with Rev. Herbert Nagel officiating.

(Jenart Studio

Baskets of white mums decorated the church altar for the candlelight service during which Herbert Ebert sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mr. Ebert was accompanied by Henry Becker at the organ.

The bride's gown was princess style and made of peau de soie with scoop neckline, long sleeves and back bow. The bodice of the gown was appliqued with alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls. The skirt of the gown ended in a chapel train. Her pure silk illusion veil was held in place with a headpiece of seed pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a crescent of white fuji and snowdrift mums. Her jewelry was a pearl choker and a gift from her bridegroom, pearl earrings.

THE BRIDE'S cousin, Janet Fritz, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Nancy Haskins and the bride's cousins, Patricia Pump and Noellene Heimsoth. Their gowns were street-length and featured almond brown leaves scattered on the backs of their skirts. Their headpieces were a circlet of the same leaves and they carried crescents of tan fuji mums and brown tea leaves.

Two flower girls, Sandra Henning, cousin and godchild of the bride, and Susan Calhoun, niece of the bridegroom, wore dresses styled similarly to the bridesmaids' dresses and carried smaller versions of the bridesmaids' bouquets.

Roger Goebbert was his brother's best man and ushers were Robert Berchet Erwin Behrens and Thomas Heimsoth, brother of the bride.

TWO HUNDRED guests attended the reception held in Mt. Prospect VFW hall where Mrs. Heimsoth received in a toast lace dress with accessories of the same color and a corsage of rose-beige cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Goebbert received in a cornflower blue lace dress with accessories of white and a blue and a white orchid corsage. After the reception, the couple left on a 10-day wedding trip in Washington, D.C. and Virginia and since their return, have been residing in an apartment in the bride's parents' home.

The new Mrs. Goebert was graduated from Arlington high school and is employed as a secretary at General Telephone Directory Co. Her bridegroom, who was also graduated from Arlington high school, is employed at Wauconda Tool and Engineering Company, Inc., Algonquin.

CHRISTMAS DECORATION from her booth at St. James Women's guild Holiday Shoppe is shown by Mrs. Rita Talaber, center, Mrs. June Hetzel and Mrs. Kathleen Dunne, co-chairmen of the affair. Holiday Shoppe will be held Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 21 and 22 in the school hall. Saturday hours will be 1 to 8 p. m. and Sunday hours, 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Other booths will sell clothing, doll clothes, aprons, pantry items, religious goods, wishing well items and toys.

Appealing Ham Loaf Makes Flavorful, Fall Entree

There is the flavor of fall in the delightful dinner we are featuring today.

The menu has been suggested by Mrs. Edward R. Grimm of Arlington Heights, and she has shared with us her excellent recipe for the entree: an appealing ham loaf.

The loaf combines ground beef, veal and ham and is seasoned with green pepper and onion. It is served hot, topped by a delectable orange sauce which transforms this dish into a specialty item.

The sauce consists of lemon juice, brown sugar, horseradish, currant jelly, pieces of orange and orange rind. This interesting combination of ingredients complements the flavor of the meat loaf.

AN ATTRACTIVE method of serving this loaf has been suggested by Mrs. Grimm. She unmolds it onto a platter and surrounds it with cinnamon apples garnished with sprigs of parsley. Baked apples may be substituted for the cinnamon apples.

Green beans and baked potatoes or potato salad are appetizing accompaniments for this meal, and pumpkin pie is an excellent dessert choice.

The good cook who has shared these recipes with us is active in the Northwest Community Hospital auxiliary and is a member of St. Peter Lutheran church.

She and her husband recently moved from S. Dunton to 1431 N. Dunton in Arlington Heights. They have two sons: Phillip, who is married and lives in Des Plaines, and Victor, who is in his second year at Northwestern university law school.

COMBINING INGEDIENTS for a delectable ham loaf is Mrs. Edward R. Grimm of Arlington Heights. Her recipe for this flavorful dinner entree is being featured in today's Successful Homemaking column.

Ham Loaf

1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
1½ cups whole wheat or white bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
¾ pound beef, ground
¾ pound veal, ground
1½ pounds ham, ground.

Combine egg, milk and bread crumbs.

Cook chopped pepper and onion in four tablespoons water. Add to bread crumb mixture. Stir into ground meats.

Shape into loaf pan and bake one hour at 350 degrees.

Orange Sauce

4 tablespoons lemon juice
¾ cup brown sugar
Grated rind of ½ orange
2 tablespoons horseradish
½ cup currant jelly
1 large orange, pared and cut into small pieces

Mix all ingredients together. Serve with hot ham loaf.

Tips for Cooking That Turkey

Even the new "Mrs." can prepare a delicious golden-brown turkey if she uses good roasting methods.

Mrs. Mary Hubbard, University of Illinois home economist, explains one method.

When the bird is ready for roasting, salt the inner cavity. You can salt the outer surface either before or after roasting. If you apply salt before, sprinkle it on lightly because it will blister the outside skin.

PLACE THE bird breast down on a rack in an uncovered shallow pan. A broiler pan is satisfactory. Do not add water. Turn the bird breast up for the last 30 minutes to brown if desired. Large birds that are too hard to turn can be roasted breast up. Keep the temperature very low, 275 degree to 325 degree F., to prevent drying the meat.

Allow plenty of roasting time. The recommended guide is 15 to 20 minutes per pound of oven-dressed weight. Large turkeys, 20 pounds dressed, will take five to six hours. If the roasting period is too short, the thick muscles will not be completely cooked. The skin will not look brown until shortly before the bird is done, so be patient.

TEST the turkey for doneness by temperature or "feel." If you use a meat thermometer, the bulb should rest in the center of the inside thigh muscle, adjoining the body cavity, and should register 190 F. The drumstick should move easily. Use care when testing the bird, since it will be very hot.

It's not necessary to baste most turkeys if you keep the temperature low. A turkey that is fairly fat will baste itself. However, if the legs and breast seem to be getting too dry or brown, cover them with cheesecloth dipped in melted unsalted fat. Sometimes a tent made with aluminum foil will protect these areas. This is not the same as wrapping the entire turkey in foil, which gives a steamed effect. (S HOSTESS COSTUMES for Mrs. W. Noerenberg, Mrs. Raymond E. Crouch and Mrs. Terrance McGuire are these ensembles, appropriate for "Las Vegas Night," the annual fall dance to be held Saturday, Nov. 21, sponsored by Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club. The affair will be held in Old Orchard country club with dancing and games beginning at 9 p.m. A midnight snack will be served to Juniors and their guests and all proceeds from the affair will go toward the club's philanthropies which include the library, Northwest Community hospital and the Brain Research foundation. Mrs. Crouch, CLearbrook 5-0229, and Mrs. McGuire, CLearbrook 5-4173, are co-chairmen of the dance and may be contacted for tickets. (S

Local Women Attend State Junior Club Board Meeting

Mrs. Myron Hartley of Mt. Prospect, seventh district junior director recently attended the state fall board meeting of the junior organization of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. At this meeting, a goal of $10,000 for scholarships for special teachers of exceptional children was approved. The money, to be raised by May 1, will bring the total amount raised for this purpose since 1953 to over $50,000. Members of the junior women's clubs of seventh district, which includes Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Mt. Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling, make a total of approximately 550 junior club members out of a total of 10,000 junior members in the state.

Illinois State Normal university, where the meeting was held, has been the chief recipient of scholarships for prospective teachers. Some $35,000 has been made available to university students and approximately $6,000 now available is to be awarded later this month. Also benefiting from the scholarships are future teachers at Southern Illinois university, which receives about a fourth of the funds made available.

THE SCHOLARSHIP projects chairman is Mrs. J. O. Watson, Johnston City. Presiding at the meeting in Normal, attended by 25 state junior board members was the state junior director, Mrs. O. C. Beattie of Lake Forest.

Speaking to the group were the president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Marshall E. Bruce of East St. Louis, and the special education division director at Illinois State Normal university, Dr. Harold Phelps. Also attending the meeting was Mrs. Edith Kidney of the Chicago office of CARE, who showed slides of the Philippines she had taken in June. On display was a Care Medical kit. Money collected by the Juniors in Illinois will go toward these kits.

Mrs. Watson also set the goal of $30,000 for Brain Research foundation and stated that contributions to this project need not end now but may continue all year.

IT WAS STATED that clubs are urged to keep saving along with the postmark. Members wishing pen pals in foreign countries should send their name and address to Mrs. Allen Nelson, junior international affairs chairman, rt. 1, Geneseo, Ill. A campaign to abolish obscene and pornographic literature being sent through the mails is being carried on in the state. Clubs are urged to join the campaign.

There will be a conference this week at Southern Illinois university, Carbondale, giving information on the community achievement contest. Those of the program include, Miss Chloe Gifford, president, General Federation of Women's clubs, Richard W. Poston, research professor, SIU, Mrs. Marshall E. Bruce, state president IFWC, Dr. Delyte W. Morris, president SIU, and Mrs. O. C. Beattie, junior director, IFWC.

Clubwomen all over the state will be attending this meeting.

St. John Women Postpone Ball

Women of St. John Episcopal church, Mt. Prospect, have regretfully postponed their annual Thanksgiving ball, due to circumstances involving location.

Plans are now being made for a Mardi Gras ball to be held the last weekend in February. More details will appear in Paddock Publications as the time draws closer.

Supper Ready?

Notice is hereby served that this is positively the last variation we shall print on this particular theme, but we do feel that we should share with you the declaration of a New Jersey housewife tacked a warning sign on the front door for her husband to see at the close of a particularly hectic day. It read: "Worn threadbare . . . will ravel."—Quote.

Boxelder Bugs Come With Cold

It's a safe bet that almost everyone appreciates fall's cool weather. But it's also a safe bet that persons having boxelder trees in their neighborhood regret the boxelder bug invasions that cool weather brings.

During the summer these bugs stay in or under boxelder trees, happily eating their fill of seed, said Steve Moore, entomologist with the Illinois natural history survey and University of Illinois college of agriculture.

When cool weather arrives, however, the bugs seek protection. If they find any cracks or crevices in the house, they crawl in completely uninvited. During warm winter days they bask in the sun on the south and west walls.

Those that get inside do not eat anything, Moore said. But they are a nuisance and sometimes spot curtains and wallpaper.

A ONE HALF per cent spray of lindane gives the quickest kill of boxelder bugs. Moore explained that one-half pint of 20 per cent lindane concentrate in 2½ gallons of water makes a one-half per cent spray.

A one fourth per cent spray of dieldrin also gives good control. Mix one quarter pint of 20 per cent dieldrin concentrate in two gallons of water.

In the fall, apply either spray to the point of runoff on house walls and nearby tree trunks where bugs may have gathered. During the winter, spray only the sides of the house. You may have to repeat at one-to two-week intervals.

If bugs ever get inside, pyrethrin household sprays will give good knockdown and kill. Spraying inside houses, however, is warranted only in severe cases. Otherwise just pick them up with a vacuum cleaner.

Nickey Chevrolet Employes Attend Family Night

Nickey Chevrolet played host to more than 400 employees, their wives, and special guests in a Nickey family night, November 10.

The showrooms of Nickey's building were transformed into a huge banquet hall, with two buffets served.

Music was provided by Eddy Howard and his orchestra. A floor show featuring Nip Nelson, impressionist, and Harry Carter and Louise, a whirlwind balloon act, was presented.

DAN SORKEN, WCFL disc jockey, acted as M.C. Bob Elson, the voice of the White Sox, was a special guest.

Among the festivities were such functions as recognition for employees who have worked for Nickey for 10 years or more, jackpot drawings of sizable cash awards for sales assistants, and a complete picture story of the progress of Nickey in sales, growth, and increase of personal.

Farm Land Prices Are Continuing Climb Up

The trend toward fewer and larger farms will continue, but the family farm will remain the basic operating unit, a University of Illinois agricultural economist told a national bankers' meeting.

Harold G. Halcrow, speaking before the American Bankers association National Credit conference, said that agriculture is undergoing a "sweeping economic readjustment to a new set of economic conditions, considerably different from those of the past."

He pointed out that the purchasing power of farm commodities had declined about one-fifth since the Korean war, and yet the value of farm assets had climbed to a new peak of $203 billion. The 1959 dollar net income per person in agriculture is expected to be practically equal to that of the peak year of 1951.

HALCROW listed these future developments in agriculture:

1. The financial assets per worker and per farm will continue to rise as the number of people in agriculture declines. The assets per worker climbed from $9,625 to $20,651 between 1950 and 1959.

2. Assuming that the 1958 and 1959 corn crops were influenced by unusually favorable weather, the price of corn will average about $1.12 a bushel and hog prices above $13.50 per hundred for the next five to 10 years.

3. Food consumption trends of the past 20 years will continue. Consumers will eat more meat, poultry and fluid milk.

4. Use of chemical weed sprays, insecticides, improved disease controls and mechanization of livestock operations may produce another upward surge of farm production.

5. DECLINE in the number of dairy farms will continue, with the remaining farms greatly expanding to number of cows and production per cow.

6. The family farm will remain the basic operating unit, but it will be more mechanized and more specialized, require higher capital investment and become a more businesslike operation than it has in the past.

To be of most help to farmers, Halcrow urged bankers to base their loans to farmers on the potential production of the entire farm rather than on just a single operation. Modern farming required an entire line of credit, not just a piecemeal series of short-term loans, he said.

The final solution of the farm income problem lies in continuing the adjustments in size and type of farm that have occurred in the past 10 years, he said. To make these adjustments possible, farm people must have employment opportunities, adequate credit, educational opportunities for young people and expansion of industry and other economic developments in rual areas.

Editors, Industry See Breeding Research Farm

More than 75 of the country's top farm editors and industrial representatives were invited to a special "preview of research plans" for the University of Illinois' Moorman Animal Breeding research farm.

The event was held on Monday, Nov. 16, on the university campus.

At the preview luncheon, visitors heard first-hand reports on the physical building program planned for the farm. They also received brief outlines of the proposed research programs.

A $200,000 grant to the university from the Moorman manufacturing company. Quincy, Ill., made it possible to establish the farm.

For the most part, researchers will concentrate on genetical studies. They will test the effectiveness of selecting breeding hogs on the basis of their gains, carcass quality, proportion of lean meat and other factors.

THE FARM'S physical setup will allow researchers to study management practices and environmental factors without detracting from the breeding program. Present plans will allow a critical evaluation of structural materials, space requirements, insulation, air-conditioning, heating and management systems. This is perhaps the most neglected area of swine research today.

The preview program began at 10 a.m. in Mumford hall with an informal coffee hour. At 12 noon the program shifted to the Spice Box in Bevier hall for lunch. Speakers appearing on the luncheon program included Dean Louis B. Howard of the college of agriculture; E. H. Wilson, president of the Moorman company; and O. Burr Ross, head of the department of animal science. At 3 p.m. the group toured the site of the research farm.

Start Local Farm Census

Local census takers began their chores, Thursday, Nov. 12, after a one-day training session at the Pleasantdale field house, La Grange.

At the course they learned the use of the census questionnaire, census definitions, interviewing, and map reading.

Those who completed the training were Mrs. Elizabeth Hammerl, Mt. Prospect, Mrs. Lucille Kuhlmann, Palatine, Mrs. Louise Sullivan, Elk Grove, Mrs. Eileen Degan, Roselle, Mrs. Jean Hermanson, Streamwood, and Mrs. Mildred Rosenberg, Barrington.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

The harvest season for soybeans and corn is well under way. Many of the beans are in the bin and much of the corn is in the crib. Excellent yields of both beans and corn have been reported this year.

It is questionable whether the state's average yeild will equal that of last year, because yields in some sections were reduced by drought conditions during the middle part of the summer.

Lindarin, a new soybean variety which has not been released for commercial distribution was the high yielding variety in a test plot grown on Harold Bergman's farm route 62 just west of Ela rd. Lindarin seed probably will be available in 1961. This soybean stood well and matured somewhat later than Chippewa, but earlier than Shelby.

ANOTHER attractive feature was that the bean did not start its pods too close to the ground, therefore it was easier to combine. The average per acre yield was 42.5 bushels. Comparing it to harosoy, a popular bean grown here, the harosoy was second in yield with 39.7 bushels per acre. Shelby, a new soybean will be released for commercial production in 1960 yielded 36.9 bushels per acre on the plot. Comparison of yields are as follows:

Variety	Yield per acre (bushels)
Lindarin	42.5
Harosoy	39.7
Adams	38.7
Chippewa	37.8
Lincoln	35.4
Hawkeye	34.6
H-H	30.1

Let me warn you again this year to be cautious about dealing with the "seed peddler" or "fly-by-night" salesman who comes to your farm with "miracle" seed at outlandish prices. Eligible varieties of seed for certification are available at reasonable prices. Call a reputable seedsman near you for information about the seed you want or call my office for sources of seed.

DON'T LET A peddler talk you into buying a variety of seed which may not even be adapted to Illinois conditions! In the past, farmers have been sold varieties of seed for certification that did not have sufficient performance tests in Illinois at that time to warrant certification.

Are you planning to run feeder cattle in your stalk fields this fall to pick up dropped corn? If you are, it will probably pay to give the cattle some protein supplement while they are in the fields. In Iowa tests, 1.2 pounds of protein supplement per head daily increased gains from 2.3 to almost 3.0 pounds per head daily while cattle were in stalk fields.

Each dollar spent for supplement returned $2.85.

Don't forget that bred sows used to clean up stalk fields need protein supplement also to get a balanced ration. Second-litter sows need at least 1 pound of a 35 per cent drylot supplement. First-litter gilts probably need 1¼ to 1½ pounds of supplement per head daily.

IF YOU HAVE oat or rye silage to feed this winter, give your cows free access to all the good-quality hay they will eat. Give them some additional grain too. Studies indicate that cows will not eat so much oat or rye silage as other types of silage. Therefore cows receiving either oat or rye silage must receive more hay, more grain, or both, to maintain high production.

It is healthier to live downstate than in Chicago, according to the Illinois state department of public health. In 1957, death rates were 1,155 per 100,000 for Chicago and 982 downstate. Rates were higher in Chicago for heart disease, cancer, diseases of infants, influenza and cirrhosis of the liver. But rates were lower for accidents, general arteriosclerosis and suicides. The highest death rates were from heart disease (455), cancer (167) and vascular lesions affecting the central nervous system (111). Early diagnosis of these diseases would be largely in their control.

It has been said that it isn't the fall that hurts you — it's the sudden stop at the bottom. Whatever it is, 20 per cent of all accidental deaths recorded last year resulted from falls or stops. What causes falls? Usually it's just simple carelessness or failure to watch your step.

Now is the time to place your order for your Thanksgiving turkey, if you haven't already done so.

Why Mulch Berries?

When warm weather rolls into Cook county next spring and summer, some strawberry beds may not produce any berries, warns Farm adviser Carl F. Mees.

These beds will probably be the ones that were not properly muched this fall. Mees pointed out that mulching protects the plants from soil heaving caused by frequent freezing and thawing.

Mulching also protects the crowns from injury when temperatures dip below 20 degrees.

University of Illinois fruit crops researchers have found that straw and shavings are the most satisfactory mulches. Although leaves are all right too, wintry winds usually bast them away.

Sawdust is not satisfactory. It takes up moisture and may freeze and injure the plants.

MEES ADVISES covering the entire patch with a two- or three-inch layer of straw or shavings. This covering will give the berry plants a "warm coat" for the entire winter.

Apply the mulch after several heavy frosts, but before temperatures drop below 20 degrees. After several frosts the plants will be dormant and ready to meet ol' man winter.

Leave the mulch on until the new spring growth shows yellow instead of green. Then thin it with a rake just enough to let the plants come through. Rake the remainder into the middle of the rows.

This will help keep the berries fresh and clean for strawberry shortcakes next summer!

Conservation Board Adds 2 Area Men

William W. Brough, Barrington and Melvin J. Thompson, Dundee were appointed recently by the directors of the North Cook county Soil Conservation district to fill the unexpired terms of Dudley Abbott and Charles Y. Thompson.

Brough will fill the vacancy created when Abbott was forced to resign, because he moved from the county. The term runs until the annual meeting, 1960.

Thompson replaces his son, Charles, who has returned to the University of Nebraska to continue his studies in agriculture. His term will expire at the time of the 1959 annual meeting.

The board has made tentative plans to hold their annual meeting in the latter part of January. The meeting will include speaker, the election of a board of directors and other business.

Harvey Pohlman, Palatine, Paul Sweningson, Barrington, and Faustin Zeller, Elgin, are other board members.

Family Farm to Stay; See Few, Large Units

By A. H. SIMERL

Farm land prices continued their upward climb this past year. Latest available figures are for July. At that time average prices of Illinois farm land were up six per cent from year-before levels. The United States average was also up six per cent.

Compared with 20 years ago (1939), both Illinois and U.S. land values have more than tripled (Illinois, 3.8 times; U. S., 3.4).

The rise in U.S. land prices has been almost continuous since 1943. In this period of 16 years, there were only two short periods of declining values. One was during the recession of 1949-50, just before the Korean war. The other was in the recession of 1952-53, just after the Korean war.

MANY "explanations" are given for the rise in farm real estate prices. Some people point to the demand for land for nonfarm uses—highways, residential sites and industrial uses. Others say that city business and professional men are bidding prices up. Still others list the need for farmers to get more land to make better use of their machinery and labor.

The simple fact is that land has been a good investment—even without good management. Ours is a high-income nation. We have substantial savings to invest each year . . each week . . each business day. The total amounts to 20 or 25 billion dollars a year.

People can put their savings into government securities, a bank, a savings association, a life insurance company, etc. But they are not really investing them until they spend the money to buy a home, a factory or a farm.

Americans once thought that bonds, especially government bonds, were the safest investment. But now that they have learned something about inflation, they do not want too many bonds.

The same goes for life insurance.

WITH INFLATION, the corporation stock market has gone up. But some stocks go down even while the general trend is upward. And no one knows when the stock market may begin a general decline. So investors do not want a full load of stocks either.

Small private businesses are another possibiity for investing savings. But most of them are unprofitable and are not recommended where security is important.

Thus many people with savings to invest eventually look to farm land as a good place to put their money. It has been a much better investment than bonds and other fixed dollar securities. It is more profitable than most small nonfarm businesses. Its value is more dependable than that of corporation stocks.

Farmers themselves are the biggest buyers of farm land. In the 12 months ended March 1, 1959, they bought more than three-fifths of all the farm land sold.

Farmers buy and own most of the land in the less productive area of the country. In the more productive areas, there are always some farmers who make considerably more than they need for living expenses. The excess is generally invested in equipment, livestock — and farm land.

Underfeeding A Common Dairy Cattle Error

Underfeeding is probably the most common dairy cattle feeding error in Illinois, according to J. G. Cash, University of Illinois extension dairy specialist.

Dairy cattle feeding studies show that many Illinois dairymen are underfeeding grain to high producers, overfeeding grain to low producers and feeding too little roughage to both high and low producers.

It's good business to feed all cows enough to keep them producing at or near their maximum level. Last year's records show that cows producing 500 pounds of butterfat returned over four times as much income above feed cost as cows producing 200 pounds.

Cows producing 500 pounds of butterfat provided this extra income even though they ate an average of 1,600 pounds more grain and 1,000 pounds more hay equivalent than the 200-pound producers.

City Seeks Data On Heart Group

Interrogatories designed to disclose the full income and administrative expenses of the Chicago Heart association were filed in U. S. District court Monday by City Attorney Herbert R. Stoffels of Park Ridge.

A pre-trial conference is scheduled before Judge Philip L. Sullivan on December 11 on the suit by physician members of the association to enjoin on constitutional grounds the city's interference with a separate door-to-door solicitation campaign by the association.

The first question, filed under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, asked the name, address, position, duties, and 1959 salary of each officer and employe of the association.

A SECOND question asked the plaintiffs to furnish for the years 1955 to 1959 (a) the total income of the association by way of donation, gift, or services rendered; (b) total expenses attributable to administration of the Chicago Heart association and collection of funds, and (c) total disbursements to individuals, groups, or organizations for research or treatment.

The third asked for the years 1957, 1958, and 1959, the names and address of each individual, group, or organization which has received funds from the CHA for purposes of research, investigation, or treatment of heart disease, and the amounts received by each.

The rules provide such interrogatories must be answered within 20 days. (B8

Danger Season in Home Fires Here

"You don't have to be near the flames to have a fire snuff out your life!"

The National Safety Council said this today to point up arrival of the season when the number of home fire deaths reaches a peak. More than half the year's home fire deaths occur during four months—December through March.

"Smoke and combustion gases," the Council said, "often are the cause of death in home fires, rather than flames."

FIRES ARE THE leading cause of home death to everyone except infants and the very elderly, and are the No. 2 cause of home death to persons of all ages. Home fires take more than 5,000 lives a year and cost the nation billions of dollars.

Your chance of surviving a fire depends on how well you know what to do.

According to the experts, the odds are 1 in 100 that you'll have a home fire during the next year, 1 in 20 you'll have a fire within five years.

Best way to stay safe from fire, of course, is to prevent it before it starts — don't smoke in bed, and have your heating system checked, for example.

IF YOU ARE unfortunate enough to have a fire, the Council said, your chances of coming out alive are better if you know these facts:

1. It's not necessarily the flames from a fire that kill you. Rising heat and combustion gases are just as deadly.

2. If possible, sleep with your bdroom door closed and the windows open. It will help keep out the lethal gases that can end your life while you sleep.

3. If you suspect fire in your home or apartment, don't hurriedly open the door. Check first to see if the door is hot. If it is, stay in your room. Get someone to call the fire department. Keep th door closed and get fresh air at the window till help arrives.
